COOLIDGE WIRED M'LEAN: 'ADVISE ME'

Your Ears, Please
More Gold—Let It Come
That Poor Caliph
The 19-Pound Baby

Current Events
By Arthur Brisbane
Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

THERE IS plenty of news today, friends, Romans, countrymen, so please lend your ears. La Follette's friends will put him at the head of a third Presidential ticket. He is willing and a little more. That's the latest in politics.

WHAT WOULD happen with La Follette running as an Independent Republican against Coolidge as the regular Republican?

That situation would find some of our "best minds," with the dollar mark in front of the mind, eagerly looking for a "safe" Democrat to whom they might transfer their affection from the Republican party.

IT'S TO be a mixed campaign. You hear a great deal about Ralston as a Democratic candidate, and much about Copeland. If "Al" Smith should get the nomination it would puzzle the financial "best minds," not that those financial big minds object to "Al" Smith or have any religious prejudice. On the contrary, they would grapple him to their souls with hoops of steel, only they are afraid he might not stay grappled. His nomination would be an experiment.

MILLIONS more in gold came to this country yesterday, sent to Mr. Mitchell's National City Bank in New York. The more the merrier. It is suggested that when we get all the gold Europe will demonetize gold and try something else. There is nothing in that. You may dethrone the Caliph of all the Moslems, but you can't dethrone Old King Gold.

THE MOHAMMEDANS of India, by the way, are very much worked up about that Caliph and want a new one in his place.

Your jungle savage, hanging his head on the ground before a wooden idol with green teeth, purple eyes and a pink nose, insists on his idol. Take it away and he loses faith. Mohammedans insist on having somebody here to represent Allah and Mohammed. They will make trouble for Kemal Pasha.

MEANWHILE the kicked-out Caliph has sadly set out for Switzerland, taking only two wives and one son. He couldn't come here, because only one wife could pass our virtuous frontier. You couldn't reasonably ask a Caliph to drop down from many wives and eight hundred concubines, to one single wife. What if she got a cold or broke a leg?

HOUSEWIVES for miles around flock to Newton, N. J., to see Mrs. William Henion's "little boy," just born and weighing nineteen pounds. Such a baby is interesting, but, you ask yourself, why does Providence send a nineteen-pound baby to a human mother weighing 130 pounds, and a nineteen-ounce baby to a female bear weighing 300 pounds? There's a good reason, of course, but who can understand it?

12 CALLED IN REDMOND JURY PROBE

Federal Action Opens; 10,000 in New England Are Hit by Crash

A Federal Grand Jury investigation into affairs of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., was begun today by U. S. District Attorney Robert O. Harris.

The old Grand Jury was dismissed today and it is understood the probe of the suspended Redmond house will be taken up by the new Grand Jury that convenes on March 18.

While the Grand Jury probe was getting under way, Judge Morton in United States District Court was granting a petition by three creditors, asking receivership for the company.

No objection was made to the petition and Judge Morton announced he would name a receiver later.

THOUSANDS IN CRASH.

A request by J. Butler Studley of counsel for the creditors that George F. Redmond, head of the concern, and other members, be restrained from disposing of any personal property, was taken under advisement by Judge Morton.

At least 10,000 New Englanders are estimated to have lost their money in the crash of the concern, whose business was suspended yesterday here and in all cities where branches are conducted.

Twelve brokers or brokerage concerns were summoned to appear today before the Grand Jury by U. S. District Attorney Robert O. Harris.

The firms and individuals summoned were:

W. L. Jarvis & Co., No. 73 Federal street.

Timothy J. Day & Co., No. 53 State street.

Frank P. Joyce & Co., No. 27 Exchange street.

Walter H. Buss, No. 60 State street.

Albert A. Barry, No. 27 Exchange street.

James Benelisha, No. 27 Exchange street.

DEATH OF SHAW ENDS WILL CASE

Former Candy Man Sought to Recover $250,000 of Wife's Estate

A court fight to break the will of his wife recently instituted by Charles Nason Shaw, former head of the candy firm of Page & Shaw, came to an abrupt end when Shaw, recently returned from a trip to Palm Beach, died suddenly at Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital.

Shaw made the trip to Florida with Mr. and Mrs. Isaac N. Angell. Mrs. Angell is the former counter girl in the West street shop of Page & Shaw, concerning whose relations with Shaw the latter had been questioned during the preliminary court hearings on the will contest.

TAKEN ILL IN HOTEL.

Shaw was taken ill at the Copley-Plaza Hotel and from there removed to the hospital.

The will fight that was interrupted by death centered about the disposal of half a million dollars of the Shaw estate. The principal beneficiary in the will of Mrs. Shaw was Albert W. Myers, for many years employed by Mrs. Shaw.

Although estranged from his wife, Shaw was provided for in the will which designated that he be paid $10,000 annually from a trust fund.

SOUGHT $250,000.

In a preliminary suit to his fight to break the will, Shaw sought to recover about $250,000 in cash and bonds from Fletcher Ranney, executor of his wife's estate, claiming that he had kept the cash and bonds in a safe deposit vault rented jointly by himself and his wife, and that the money and bonds were seized by Ranney when he was appointed executor.

The provision in Mrs. Shaw's will, under which Myers was to receive the bulk of the estate, required him to care for a pet dog of Mrs. Shaw's as long as it lived.

LIE PASSED BY STATE SENATOR

Cox Resents Beck's Charge at Hearing Involving Chelsea Ballot List

The lie was passed between Senator Edward J. Cox of East Boston and Representative John E. Beck of Chelsea before the legislative Committee on Public Service today.

Representative Beck said a brother of Senator Cox and his wife vote in Chelsea, although not bona fide residents of the city. "It is a lie," Senator Cox replied heatedly.

Representative Beck also charged that the voting lists of Chelsea are padded to such an extent that if the referendum on the question of placing the chief of police under civil service rules is submitted to the people it will not receive fair consideration.

He made the charges in opposing the petition of Senator Cox that the office of chief of police of Chelsea be placed under civil service, the bill carrying a referendum.

Representative Beck, the only opponent, said he had only the highest regard for Chief Charles M. Flinn. He said the chief, however, is not allowed a free rein in administering the department, which is controlled by Mayor Quigley.

He said conditions are such in Chelsea that the Federal government has stepped in and thirteen cases are pending where the government seeks to invoke the "padlock" law in liquor cases.

"There is no attempt to get the big people who are violating the law, because they are in right with the administration," Representative Beck said.

He said there are many names on the voting lists which ought not to be there, many women being illegally registered.

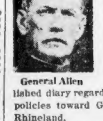
General Allen Quits as Member of Olympic Games

Paris, March 6.—Major-General Henry T. Allen, U. S. A., retired, executive officer of the American Olympic committee, has withdrawn as one of the American principal American delegates to the coming Paris Olympic games. It is believed the retirement is a result of his recently published diary regarding the French policies toward Germany in the Rhineland.



General Allen

Diplomatic quarters in Paris, it is stated, were requested to convey to the State Department the suggestion that General Allen's presence in Paris in June and July on the American committee might lead to unpleasant incidents.

General Allen's defenders have said privately that he has written nothing respecting his sentiments that he had not previously expressed unequivocally to his French assocites on the Rhineland commission.

MESSAGE READ AT HEARING

President Explains His Wire Was Merely About "District Matters"

Washington, March 6.—A telegram from President Coolidge to E. B. McLean in Florida was read into the Oil Committee record today.

The message, sent on January 12, said:

"Prescott is away. Advise Slemp with whom I shall confer.
(Signed)
"CALVIN COOLIDGE."

Slemp was then in Palm Beach.

Immediately after the reading of President Coolidge's messages to McLean, the President issued this statement:

"The telegram related to the district commissionership. Samuel J. Prescott is the Republican city chairman and the President desired to confer with him regarding district matters."

A short time before the committee had heard read a telegram from Chief Doorkeeper McKenna at the White House advising McLean on December 22 that Slemp was leaving that night for the south.

Then an exchange of messages was read showing that on January 19, Albert B. Fall at Palm Beach wired Chairman Lenroot of the Oil Committee asking "if Walsh has authority to subpoena me to testify," and got a response saying he had not.

President Coolidge telegraphed McLean at Palm Beach again on February 12, according to the committee's telegrams.

"Thank you for your message," the second Coolidge telegram read, "you have always been most considerate. Mrs. Coolidge joins me in sending kindest regards to Mrs. McLean."

President Coolidge later made this statement relative to the second

COOLIDGE "ADVISE ME" TELEGRAMS TO McLEAN ARE REVEALED

MESSAGES SENT FROM WHITE HOUSE TO PUBLISHER READ AT HEARING

telegram sent to McLean under date of February 12:

"The telegram sent to Mr. McLean on February 12 was in regard to a message from Mr. McLean congratulating the President on his Lincoln birthday address in New York.

EXCHANGE OF AMENITIES.

"The telegrams exchanged were similar to others received and sent out in that connection. It amounted simply to an exchange of amenities."

C. Bascom Slemp, the President's secretary, later issued a statement correcting the previous White House announcement with respect to the McLean telegram of February 1.

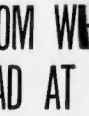
The statement said:

"The telegram sent to Mr. McLean under date of February 12 was in answer to a telegram received from McLean congratulating the President on his statement with respect to the Senate resolution calling for the resignation of Edwin Denby as Secretary of the Navy.

"Owing to the date of the telegram it was first thought it related to the President's Lincoln Day address at New York. An examination of the White House files after issuances by the President of his statement disclosed, however, that the McLean message related to the Denby matter.

"A number of congratulatory messages were received in connection with both the statements on the Robinson resolution and the New York speech."

Mrs. Coolidge



President Coolidge

The first telegram was sent the McLean had testified that the $10,000 loan he previously had said was made to Fall on a note was actually in the form of checks which were returned to him unpaid.

The second was dated days before McLean was summoned by the committee to explain.

The telegram informing McLean directly from the White House that C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the President, was leaving for Palm Beach, was signed by H. E. McKenna, chief doorkeeper at the executive offices.

"The secretary leaves tonight," this message said.

It was dated December 22, 1923, and addressed to McLean at Palm Beach.

"MARY" MESSAGE.

On January 22 "Johns" sent a message to McLean at Palm Beach, saying "subpoena for Fall today. Returnable Friday."

Another "Mary" message in code was presented. Like the other, it was addressed to W. O. Duckstein, a McLean employe at Palm Beach.

"Burns states," the message said, "lawyer friendly to department said that an inquiry was on foot to ascertain whether McLean was regular appointed dollar-year man and asked him to find out.

"Department lawyer came to Burns and inquired. Burns said Attorney General was only person who could give information regarding such appointment.

WIRED BARUCH.

"Evidently preparing for mud slinging. Burns states impossible to say when he can get away. Being kept here on Dome hearing. Department Rable to be called upon at any time for investigation and to prepare injunctions."

On January 5, McLean from Palm Beach wired Bernard M. Baruch of New York at Georgetown, S. C., asking when he would be in Washington.

"Will be in Washington January 8 and 7," said a telegram to McLean signed "Bernie," with "affectionate regards."

On January 27 McLean wired Francis T. Homer, a Baltimore lawyer, asking him if the oil committee could compel him to testify where he had $100,000 on deposit.

"PROMINENT PEOPLE."

"Think over certain prominent people and that time," the telegram said, "and you will realize why large cash funds were kept on hand at that time."

Fall telegraphed from Palm Beach on January 11 that facts would be developed, but names not given in testimony before Senator Walsh at Palm Beach.

Senator Walsh, chief prosecutor of the oil inquiry, had gone to Florida to question McLean, but committee records show he was empowered to summon such witnesses as he might desire.

Gaston B. Means, a widely known investigator, once employed by the Department of Justice, wired to McLean's secretary early in January that he was on the way to Palm Beach.

"MUTUAL FRIEND."

"Please see Senator Jim and find out if there is disposition to make mutual friend make long journey," said a message sent from Palm Beach January 24 by W. F. Wiley to Ira E. Bennett.

Wiley is manager of the Cincinnati Enquirer and Bennett is an editorial writer on the Washington Post.

Mention of "Senator Jim" led Senator James E. Watson of Indiana to issue a statement, "saying he knew nothing about it."

The statement said: "I do not know W. F. Wiley. I do know Ira E. Bennett, but he never at any time talked to me regarding the inquiry contained in W. F. Wiley's telegram."

Mrs. Duckstein was placed on the stand when the reading was concluded. She said W. J. Burns, chief of the Justice Department's Bureau of Investigation had changed previous plans to go to Florida, because of a belief that the Oil Committee might need his assistance, but asserted that other expressions in her message had been personal between herself and husband.

LISTENED IN.

Mary Quigley, telephone operator for the Washington Post, mentioned in some of the telegrams, was called. John Major of the Post wiring McLean, had asserted she had listened on the lines while W. O. Duckstein was talking.

"I repeated conversations Duckstein had with his wife in an offhand way," she said. "I plugged in and out on the wire. I heard him say:

"'I'm going down to Palm Beach tonight; I've got them all bowing to me now.'

"Then I heard Mrs. Duckstein say:

"'Now, Billy, you've got the right idea at last.'"

"I didn't hear all the conversation. He might have been talking about anything. I've repeated a lot of things to Mr. Major from the wire."

Throughout the long cross-examination, she clung stubbornly to her story.

PATHOLOGICAL COMPLEX.

Senator Walsh asked about long-distance calls to Palm Beach.

She said she supposed there was a record of such calls but didn't remember when they took place.

W. O. Duckstein testified he had used an obsolete Department of Justice code in wire messages to his employer. A new code had been put into the McLean service during January and February, he said.

"That Major telegram doesn't mean anything to me," Duckstein said. "I think it was the outcome of a psychological complex. That's all I can see out of it after several readings."

"The stuff" which the telegram said he was "turning over," he said, consisted of envelopes McLean ordered him to give to the publisher's attorney, Wilton J. Lambert.

HINTS TO McLEAN.

Duckstein said he had not the slightest recollection of the telephone conversation referred to in Major's message.

He was asked about the "Mary" messages. He said he had turned them over to McLean without comment. Each is claimed to carry a hint to McLean to resign as a dollar-a-year secret agent of the Department of Justice.

Questioned about the special telegraph wire between the Post and Palm Beach, Duckstein said E. W. Smithers, chief of communications at the White House, had asked for the job of manning this end.

STORY ACCUSED McLEAN.

"I was told to ask Smithers, who knew lots of operators, about working the wire," he said, "and Smithers, when I talked to him over the telephone, said he'd like to get the job and make some extra money by working overtime."

"There was a damnable story published with the implication that Mr. McLean was skipping the country," Duckstein said, "and I wanted to talk with Burns to see what we could do to stop that sort of thing and get redress."

McLean had told Duckstein to "put himself in position to decode telegrams."

"How did you do that?" Senator Walsh asked.

"I simply went to Burns and asked him, because I knew Mr. McLean had a department code book," Duckstein said. "Burns told me, 'Here's an old code book; go ahead and use it.'"

DENIES "EASY ACCESS" WIRE.

"Did you hire Mr. Smithers, as one of these messages says, so that you could get 'easy access to the White House?'" put in Senator Dill of Washington.

The witness laughed. "I never had the slightest idea of that," he said. "I'd never met Mr. Smithers before. I don't know of such a telegram."

Press Move to Identify Accused House Members

Washington, March 6.—A movement gained ground in the House today to establish the identity of the two Representatives charged in the report of a Chicago grand jury with being guilty of bribery.

The situation was discussed at a conference attended by Speaker Gillett, Republican leader, Representative Longworth, Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee and Democratic leader Garrett, who has introduced a resolution of inquiry.

Many Mentioned for Daugherty's Post

Washington, March 6.—Candidates to succeed Attorney-General Daugherty, if he quits, have been brought to the attention of President Coolidge almost without number.

Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa, Judge Frank S. Dietrich of Idaho, Judge Curtis D. Wilbur of California, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, Charles B. Warren of Michigan, William B. Hayward of New York and Silas H. Strawn of Chicago are but a few of those whose qualifications have been brought under the President's scrutiny.

Rep. Burton Is Considered as Secretary of Navy

Washington, March 6.—Theodore E. Burton, present member of the House and former Senator from Ohio, is one of those now being considered by President Coolidge for appointment as Secretary of the Navy.

For further developments see the American.

Coolidge Can't Let Oil Probers See Tax Returns

Washington, March 6.—President Coolidge declined today to turn over to the Oil Committee the tax returns of individuals and corporations prominently mentioned in the investigation.

Replying to a Senate resolution the President said he had been advised by the acting Attorney General that he was without authority to comply.

The President offered, however, to co-operate with the Secretary of the Treasury in an effort to secure an amendment to prevailing regulations which would permit the Oil Committee to "inspect" the returns, if it so desired.

FORECASTS U. S. REDEMPTION IN OIL SCANDAL

Editor Frank Says the Expose May Shock People Into Interest in Government

The political redemption of America may come out of the oil scandal, it was predicted today by Glenn Frank, editor of the Century Magazine, in a luncheon address before the Boston Chamber of Commerce at the Copley Plaza.

"Secretary Fall may succeed in doing what the professors of political science have never been able to do," declared Frank. "He may shock a politically illiterate people into a genuine interest in the problem of government.

"The oil scandal is nothing less than a challenge to an exhaustive re-examination of the tools, the technique and the leadership of American politics.

HERO POSTMAN STOPS TO SAVE A BOY

John J. Kerrigan, Atlantic letter carrier, and four-year-old Francis Veno, he saw struggling in Quincy River. The hero postman plunged in and saved the lad. Kerrigan was commended by his postal superiors, although he had neglected to mention the rescue at the end of the day's work.

POSTMAN SAVES A LIFE, "ALL IN A DAY'S WORK"

Atlantic Hero Forgets to Report About Heroism in River

John J. Kerrigan, Atlantic mail carrier, is a man who lives right up to the letter of his job—even when it comes to life-saving.

And because he lives up to the letter of his job, he has been commended by superiors for saving four-year-old Francis Veno of No. 9 West Squantum street, Quincy, from drowning in the Neponset river.

Kerrigan lives at No. 42 Walnut street, Atlantic. Several weeks ago he, with other mail carriers, learned with interest that mail men were supposed in addition to their regular duties, to give first aid treatment and perhaps put out fires, catch burglars, rescue fair maidens in distress and—in general—make themselves as useful as a side line to delivering mail.

So when Kerrigan saw the little Veno boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Veno, struggling in the river, he deemed it money in line of duty to go to the child.

Still considering the matter in line of duty he neglected to report his life-saving act at the end of his day's work. To him it was "all in a day's work."

But Mrs. Veno witnessed the heroic feat and she reported. Hence the commendation by his superiors.

COUNTY EMPLOYES ASK HIGHER PAY

Representative Francis N. Coyne of Dorchester and others appeared before the legislative Committee on Public Service today in favor of a bill providing for a 15 per cent. increase for all county employes receiving less than $2,000 a year. The increase to become operative July 1.

LA FOLLETTE TO HEAD THIRD PARTY

Washington, March 6.—Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin will positively run for President on a third party ticket. The formal statement of his candidacy will be issued in a few days, it was stated here.

GRAND JURORS SOON TO PROBE OIL LEASES

Cancellation of Doheny-Sinclair Rights Also to Be Sought in Equity

Washington, March 6.—Cancellation of the government oil leases to the Doheny and Sinclair interests will be sought in bills of equity to be filed by the government oil counsel next week.

The bills will be filed in the United States courts, that against the Sinclair companies in the district of Wyoming and that against the Doheny companies in the southern district of California.

The judge at Cheyenne has set March 13 for the preliminary hearing in the Sinclair case. Messrs. Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, special government counsel, will leave Washington so as to be present at this hearing. As soon as practicable thereafter they will proceed from there to California, where the preliminary hearings will be held as promptly as the convenience of the court permits.

The bills will ask for return of the naval reserves to the government on the ground that "fraud and illegality were involved."

Injunctions also will be asked against further drilling and withdrawal of oil by the Sinclair and Doheny companies, and the court will be requested to name receivers to control the properties pending completion of the litigation.

As the request of the special counsel, a special Grand Jury will be impanelled here about April 1 to consider the evidence so far brought out in the oil inquiry.

Knight Denies Any Entanglement With Oil

Washington, March 6.—Samuel Knight, whose nomination as special counsel in the Standard Oil Company of California lease case has aroused opposition on the ground that he was counsel for a bank in which the Rockefellers were interested, informed government officials before accepting that he had never represented oil interests.

SOMERVILLE CROOKS WORK FOR SMALL PAY

Somerville police are investigating several thefts committed apparently by the same men. Entrance to all the places was effected in the same manner.

Patrolman William H. Donovan noticed the front door of the wagon factory occupied by James A. Kiley on Linwood street open and found entrance had been made by forcing a rear window. The office had been ransacked, but apparently nothing of value had been taken.

The Boxcroft Company at No. 33 South street had been entered and nothing of value was taken.

The Mystic Valley Parkway locker buildings owned by Charles E. Mackey was entered and tools valued at $20 were stolen. At C. H. Brown's grocery, No. 33 Broad street, thieves were apparently frightened away before anything of value had been seized.

As Mrs. —— cheerily picked up her parcel she exclaimed: "I don't know what sizes they are—but had to pick them up or I wouldn't get any, but I guess there'll be one in there to fit me and up to the house where I live there are four other girls whom I can sell the others to."

HER PLEA HEEDED BY COURT

Lillian Daniher Thinks First Ceremony Did Not Meet Law's Demands

The love of women surpasseth all understanding—even that of the Dedham Probate Court.

Lillian M. Daniher, vaudeville actress of Brookline, does not want freedom from marriage. And she does not want to marry another man. She obtained an annulment of her marriage because she wants to marry the same man, despite her testimony that he beat and otherwise abused her.

Miss Daniher has been twice married, once divorced and now has had her second marriage annulled.

The last action was brought in Norfolk Probate Court in Dedham. The actress declared that on April 14, 1920, after obtaining a decree nisi divorcing her from Robert H. Calvert, she was inducted by Charles H. McRae, known also as Charles T. Ray, to marry him before the divorce became absolute.

They were married at South Manchester, Ct., and lived at No. 488 Harvard street, Brookline, a house belonging to her, according to her testimony.

Later, when she learned that this marriage was not legal, she refused to live with McRae. She testified that he refused to leave the house, but occupied another room.

In her petition she alleged that he had beaten and otherwise abused her, had imposed restraint upon her liberty and had taken and retained personal property belonging to her.

Then, in her testimony, she assured the court by declaring that her sole purpose in seeking annulment of the marriage was that she wished to be free to marry McRae ever again—this time legally. She declared that she still loves him.

Judge Joseph R. McCoole granted her annulment petition.

WOMAN, 72, IS NEAR DEATH IN FIRE

South End Man Burned Trying to Save Life on Appleton St.

Combination of an oil stove, gust of wind and a flimsy nightgown may cost the life of Miss Catherine Gardner, seventy-two, of No. 61 Appleton street, South End.

Miss Gardner was badly burned about the entire body and head today while preparing breakfast.

Richard D. Sexton, fifty, a lodger, sustained bad burns when he endeavored to beat out the flames with his hands.

Both were taken to the City Hospital, where physicians fear that the aged woman may die. In addition to her burns, she is suffering from shock.

NEW CHAPMAN CLEW LEADS TO BRITAIN

Scotland Yard Searches London Underworld for Escaped Randolph Bank Bandit

The search for Gerald Chapman, Randolph bank robber, who, with two companions escaped from the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., spread to England today.

Detectives of the Scotland Yard force, on advice from the United States, are combing the London underworld for Chapman and his friends, and an arrest is expected shortly. His companions are George Anderson and Ludwig Shmidt.

Gerald Chapman

Chapman was sent to Atlanta after he and two companions were arrested in connection with a $2,000,000 mail train robbery in 1922. Chapman was identified by the police as the leader of a band of bandits who in 1919 robbed the Randolph Savings Bank of $40,000.

Chapman was serving a twenty-five-year term in the Federal prison when he escaped in April, 1923.

HUMAN TORCH IS ARRESTED AS FIREBUG

Lowell Man Accused of Incendiary Blazes After a Flaming Dash Along Street

Lowell, March 6.—Flame, sparks, smoke and the acrid odor of burning "all wool" streaming out behind a galloping man in Merrimack street today.

In the next hour following the rapid passage of the "torch bearer" firemen stamped out a brisk blaze, a policeman captured a man and set him go again, and an arrest on an incendiary charge was made when John Tsaffaras was taken from behind a tree where he was alleged to be hiding.

The excitement started when a man was seen hitting the high spots along Merrimack street. He was running desperately, his coat tails afire streaming horizontally behind him, giving off sparks, smoke and an acrid odor.

LET HIM GO.

At Austin street the flaming runner skidded around the corner and shed the burning coat. Some distance up the street Patrolman Henry J. Frechette halted the progress of a running man.

The policeman recognized him as John Tsaffaras. He asked what the hurry was. Tsaffaras said he was fleeing the scene of a recent fight. The policeman let him go.

At about the same time firemen attached to Hose 8 in Race street were hurrying across the street to a small hosiery mill, operated by Kalil Mansour in a building at No. 838 Varnum avenue. They soon extinguished the flames.

Then, at police headquarters, the telephone rang and a voice in broken English, said a fire had been set at Race and Merrimack streets—the location of the hosiery mill.

A squad of police piled into an automobile and raced down to the corner. The fire was out.

HELD ON OLD CHARGE.

On their way back, in Varnum avenue, near the home of Corumbesis, they spied a man endeavoring to hide behind a tree. They discovered it was Tsaffaras. He was again wearing a coat and hat. He had been calling on a friend, he said.

At police headquarters he was held in $10,000 on an incendiary charge. When this charge is heard in court another charge pending against him, alleging an attempt to bribe a State officer, will be heard.

It is asserted that Tsaffaras took a number of auto license examinations in the name of other men and during the tests attempted to bribe some of the auto inspectors.

MISS VANDERBILT'S WEDDING IMMINENT

Washington, March 6.—Close friends today forecast the early announcement of the engagement of Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt to J. F. A. Cecil, a secretary in the British embassy here. Mr. Cecil declined to discuss the question, but others near him and Miss Vanderbilt said the formal announcement would be made during the next few days and that numerous messages of congratulation already had been received. Although the couple have known each other only a comparatively short time, the imminent marriage is said to have the approval of both the Vanderbilt and Cecil families.

KILLED BY FUMES FUMIGATING COTTON

Bill to Guard Girls' Knees Stirs Up Owners of Bees

Albany, March 6.—Senator William T. Byrne of this city introduced a bill prohibiting keeping bees in villages of 100 or more population. And now there is a new lobby to defend the bees.

"The people who asked me to sponsor the bill said it is as much as a woman's life is worth to sally forth arrayed in the present styles of clothing when they don't chain up the bees.

"Bees are fond of sweets and therefore descend upon the women's shapely arms now bare, and I am told do not always confine their attacks to arms. With the flappers rolling 'em down we must legislate to protect the knees."

ENGINEER, RUN OVER BY TRAIN, IS DYING

Knocked Under Locomotive in B. & M. East Somerville Yards

Herbert S. Hodgdon, fifty-three years old, of No. 33 Walter street, Somerville, a B. & M. engineer, is dying at the Massachusetts General Hospital after being run over by a locomotive in the East Somerville railroad yards today.

His right leg was cut off and the left leg badly crushed.

Hodgdon, who runs the Lawrence freight, had just finished work and was walking through the roundhouse to sign out. As he crossed the ashpit a locomotive backed down the track and hit him. He was rushed to the North Station on a locomotive and transferred to the hospital in a police ambulance.

Hodgdon has been employed by the Boston & Maine since 1892.

Judge Praises Man Who Slashed His Rival in Love

Knoxville, Tenn., March 6.—P. C. Gossett, business man, told Judge Robert P. Williams today he tried to kill William P. Roberts, when he found the man in his wife's room.

Gossett was charged with assault and battery.

Roberts exhibited a four-inch gash in the side of his head, which he said Gossett put there.

"I fine you fi e dollars," Judge Williams told Gossett, after hearing both sides, and immediately suspended it.

"You are guilty technically but the unwritten law was made for you. I would have done the same thing myself."

BUTLER HAS CUT CRIME 20 PER CENT.

Prosecutor Declares Boston Crooks Are Now Dodging Philadelphia

Philadelphia, March 6.—Since Director of Public Safety Butler's induction into office the number of felons tried in the criminal courts of Philadelphia county has dropped 20 per cent, Assistant District Attorney Maurice J. Speiser said today.

"Although I am not qualified to comment on the director's policies," said Mr. Speiser, "I can safely say that General Butler will be successful in his crime suppression task."

Records show, he said, that only a small percentage of the 2,087 indictments returned by the grand jury during the last two months were for felonies.

"Butler has cleaned out the divas, the poolrooms—in fact, all the hangouts of the criminal element. The crooks from New York, Boston, Baltimore and elsewhere have learned that it is better to give Philadelphia a wide berth," said Speiser.

Speaking before a ward branch of the women voters of Philadelphia, General Butler last night called upon them to march to the City Hall to show the "cheap politicians" that they were in favor of law enforcement.

"Go down to City Hall, thousands of you," he said. "Show those cheap politicians there and elsewhere that you are in favor of law enforcement. Smoke them out of their rat holes, get behind us and show the cheap crooks lurking and skulking in the shadows behind their righteous protestations, that you won't stand for any flim-flamming."

BIG SMUGGLING PLOT BARED BY ARREST

New York, March 5.—One of the largest jewelry smuggling plots ever brought to the attention of the Federal authorities, involving the seizure of $150,000 worth of gems, it is alleged, was revealed with the arraignment in the Federal District Court of Arthur M. Mediansky, a partner in the Viennese jewelry firm of Moritz Kraus.

Mediansky and four other members of that firm are charged with being concerned in a conspiracy to smuggle jewelry into the United States. Mediansky was released in $5,000 bail.

Smart Set Now Rehearsing for Coming Vincent Club Show, Says Betty Alden

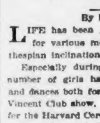
By BETTY ALDEN.

LIFE has been just one rehearsal after another for various members of the younger set with thespian inclinations.

Especially during the past few weeks when a number of girls have been perfecting their songs and dances both for "Oh Boy" and "Wake Up," the Vincent Club show, while a few are also in the cast for the Harvard Cercle Francais play.

Now that "Oh Boy" has come and gone, those having parts in both productions are throwing themselves more whole-heartedly than ever into the daily rehearsals for "Wake Up."

Mrs. Morgan Butler, who played the lead in "Oh Boy," will be "Dolly Fairfax" in the Vincent show; Miss "Rose" Adie, who was "Polly Andrus" in this week's production, is to be "Sheila," heroine of "Wake Up;" Miss Anna Winslow, who scored a tremendous hit in "Oh Boy" with her Bowery-like interpretation of "Rose of Washington Square," will have a comedy part in the Vincent production; Miss May Brewer who, with her sister Ruth, gave a delightful imitation of the Duncan Sisters in "Oh Boy," will be in the singing chorus of "Wake Up."



Anna Winslow
(Photo by Wide)

Miss Elizabeth Thorndike, one of the most graceful "chorines" in "Oh Boy," will be quite transformed to play the role of "Mrs. Templeton," mother of the heroine. Miss Thorndike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden A. Thorndike of Commonwealth avenue, made her debut last Winter. She has taken part in almost every theatrical staged since her presentation.

APROPOS of "Oh Boy" everyone seems agreed that it was one of the best amateur shows ever staged by society folk in Boston. There are not a few who enjoyed it more than many professional performances.

At the midnight performance on Tuesday—the last performance of the show—the very smart audience actually "hurrahed" its enthusiasm of Joseph's Seabury's terpsichorean feats — as well as feet.

Mrs. Timothee Adamowski and Mrs. Edward M. Bangs were in charge of the novel "hot dog" supper served between the acts at the midnight show.

And the hot dogs certainly went over big. The ladies were actually besieged just a moment after the curtain fell.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES MINOT AMORY (Gladys Munn) and the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Boardman, as well as T. JeFerson Coolidge, Jr., Cornelius C. Felton and George Amory were among the Bostonians who attended the first dinner dance held at the new Gulf Stream Golf Club at Boynton, fifteen miles from Palm Beach.

John Gaston and Harold S. Vanderbilt were among the hosts for the affair. Spanish decorations prevailed in the dining room.

GIRL OF 'BRICK OVEN' HIDING; IS NOT WED

Miss Brownell's Attorney Denies She Eloped With Francis Langan, Author

Elizabeth Brownell, pretty bobbed-hair proprietor of "The Brick Oven," No. 18 Joy street, has not eloped with John Francis Langan, author. She is "hiding somewhere in Boston," and has not seen her alleged fiancee since he filed marriage intentions at City Hall a week ago.

This is the positive statement of the young woman's attorney, Richard S. McCabe, who ridicules the idea that she slipped over to New York to marry the young author who nightly called at "The Brick Oven" for a cup of tea.

"Miss Brownell was terribly upset when she learned Langan filed marriage intentions," he said. "To avoid a nervous breakdown she thought it best to drop out of sight for a while. I did not think she ever had any intention of marrying Langan. Why he went to the marriage bureau I do not know. He is reported to have said he is now sorry."

Although Langan is only 22, a lawyer in Saco, Me., has informed the clerk of the marriage bureau here he believes the author to be the man against whom a divorce action is pending in that State. The city authorities have not been able to locate Langan.

Gibraltar, March 6 (I.N.S.).—Melilla, base of Spanish military operations in Morocco, was reported in flames today. It was said to have been set afire by shells from the Riff tribesmen's artillery.

URGES CANDIDATES GIVE LIVING SOURCE

Chicago, March 6.—David Ladd Rockwell, national chairman of the McAdoo-for-President committee, in a statement today, suggested that every candidate for President be required to tell just how he makes his living.

"McAdoo appeared before the Senate Public Lands Committee and laid himself open to any question any senator wished to ask him about his public and private affairs," Mr. Rockwell said. "As a matter of fairness why should not this committee, or some other, summon every candidate for the Presidential nomination before it, with books and papers, to lay bare the details of his private life and of how he makes a living? What is fair for one is fair for all."

CALIPH'S DESERTED HAREM IN DISTRESS

Constantinople, March 6.—Members of the Caliph's household left behind on his departure for Switzerland are penniless and in acute distress, no provision having been made for the eunuchs and members of the harem. A number of Y. M. C. A. secretaries visited the palace yesterday and took food to the harem women.

CLASH HALTS LUDENDORFF TRIAL

Prosecutor Quits Courtroom in Anger, Charging Defence Assaulted Him

Munich, March 6 (I.N.S.).—Amidst tumultuous scenes the high treason trial of General Erich Ludendorff, Adolf Hitler and eight other revolutionary conspirators was suddenly halted today. For a time it appeared, proceedings had broken down entirely, but later it was announced the trial would be resumed Friday.

The public prosecutor declared he would not continue "on account of the insults from counsel for the defence." He took special exception to the accusation that he was suffering from "the arresting mania."

"I will not remain here to be insulted," he declared angrily as he left the courtroom.

The proceedings were adjourned to give the second prosecutor time to ask the Ministry of Justice whether he might retain other counsel to take the place of the first prosecutor.

Before the adjournment one of the lawyers for the defence had directed another tirade against the prosecution, saying:

"You have arrested almost everybody upon the most vague pretence, but you left Dr. Von Kahr (former Bavarian dictator) unmolested, and he is the guiltiest of all."

When spectators applauded the president of the court threatened to clear the room.

After the storm subsided Dr. Kohl, a defence attorney, addressed the court, reiterating the demand for the arrest of Von Kahr, whom, he said, "bears the blood guilt of the entire coup."

Fewer Babies, But Still Fewer Deaths in England

London, March 6—Fewer babies are being born in Britain than formerly, but the country's population problem is getting worse, simply because people seem to live longer than they used to.

Last year the birth rate was 19.7 per thousand, the lowest on record, excepting the last stages of the war. But the death rate dropped to 11.6, the healthiest year on record.

Altogether, there were 738,386 births in England and Wales and 414,869 deaths, a natural increase in population of 313,517.

ARREST WOMAN WHO WHIPPED RICH N. H. MAN

Durgin Defies Mrs. Day's Threat to Use Horsewhip on Him Again

Bennington, N. H., March 6.—Defying the threat of Mrs. Lois F. Day to "horsewhip him again if he starts anything," Charles W. Durgin, Bennington's richest man, lashed recently by the wife of the village grocer because she said he made slanderous remarks about her, has brought about her arrest.

Mrs. Day, with Mrs. Mary J. Downing, who is alleged to have hammered Durgin with a broom when he appeared in her direction, and Horace French, who is declared to have coaxed Mr. Durgin into Main street, where Mrs. Day greeted him with a horsewhip, will appear in court at Peterboro tomorrow. They are charged with assault and battery.

With them in court will be Attorney Jeremiah J. Doyle of Nashua, who has been retained to fight on their behalf.

WRITES WIFE AND THEN ENDS LIFE

New York, March 6.—William A. Cockley, 54, a well-to-do flour broker, shot and killed himself in an East Twenty-sixth street hotel. His body was found after his wife had notified police she had received a telegram from Cockley at the dinner hour last night, reading: "Have mailed you an important letter; it will tell all."

DREYFUS CAFE HAS CLOSED ITS DOORS

After operating for thirty-two years on Hayward place and at No. 6 Beach street, the Dreyfus Cafe has been forced to close its doors on account of loss of business, according to Henry A. Dreyfus, president of the interests which control that company.

SOLONS ARE SHY AT HEARING BARUCH

State Senator Youngman Willing, but Colleagues Disagree at Conference

The Committee on Constitutional Laws filed after an hour's debate in executive session to reach an agreement as to whether it will grant the request of Bernard M. Baruch to appear before it at a public hearing and reply to charges made by Senator Youngman of Brighton on February 8 last.

that the meeting was to be resumed today in an effort to reach an agreement.

Representative J. Bradford Davis, House chairman of the committee, however, takes the stand that the matter is closed because of the report of the committee disposing of the petition that wealth be conscripted as well as the lives and liberties of citizens. It was debate on this petition that brought forth Senator Youngman's charges.

A letter was received from Baruch by President Allen of the Senate, thanking him for reassembling the committee and stating that he would be ready to appear before it at any time.

Wins Trip Abroad

MARY WARNER

Mary Warner of Pennsdale, Pa., has been elected by the senior class at Wellesley to go to Europe this Summer on the Travelling Fellowship, offered by the Bureau of University Travel of Newton.

This is the first year the bureau ever had a fellowship for a girl, and Wellesley is the only college such a fellowship is extended to.

When the Senior class elected Miss Warner, it chose one who had majored in Latin, who had worked her way through school, and had at the same time been most prominent in athletics, having received an Old English W, the highest athletic honor, in hockey, and having played on the varsity hockey team for four years.

NINE FIREMEN KNOCKED OUT BY BLAST

One Blown Out of Window at Three-Alarm Summer Street Blaze

Two movie thrillers in real life with firemen playing the leading roles marked the progress of a three-alarm fire that swept the three upper floors of the business building at No. 171 to 173 Summer street.

Frank Donahue and eight comrades of Engine No. 39 were manning a hose on the third floor when a hot air explosion knocked them off their feet. Donahue was thrown five yards and through an open window.

He caught hold of the fire ladder outside and saved himself from a drop to the pavement below. He was dazed and cut and he was given medical treatment.

Donahue's companions got to their feet again and continued the work of fire fighting.

Later five men of Ladder No. 17 had a narrow escape from death. Flames reached out of the building and ignited the ladder on which they were working.

DAMAGE $40,000.

The fire, which did damage estimated at $40,000, started in some unknown manner in the Bluestein Brothers' Shoe store on the third floor of the five-story brick building.

The shoe store was destroyed. Flames spread to the Elgner Shoe Company plant on the fourth floor, and it also was wiped out. The plant of the Harvard Engraving Company on the fifth floor was ruined. Smoke and water did considerable damage to the Wagner Clothing Company, on the second floor, and to the Rawson Market, on the street floor.

CLEVELAND'S WATER FULL OF CHEMICALS

Cleveland, March 6.—Virtually all of Greater Cleveland depended on springs and distributors of distilled water for drinking and cooking supplies today. The water of Lake Erie is charged with a strong taste of manufacturing plant phenol and is saturated with chlorine from the filtration plant. The situation is due to a thaw allowing the phenol to flow into the lake past the intakes.

A "Quality"-Proving Event
A "Service"-Proving Event
A "Value"-Proving Event

The people of New England have built up a better-living spirit. The appreciation of the home beautiful, the home artistic, the home comfortable, has grown transcendently greater. There is an appreciation of the finer things—furnishings that endure—furnishings that are practical.

It is our part to do in this forthcoming Anniversary Sale—to lessen costs of "quality" furniture. If our understanding is right, our judgment sound, if we are justified in believing that the public want "quality"-return for money expended, then this great undertaking, this great sales event now in the making, will be a tribute to the intelligence of the public that we serve—a justification of our contention that it is "quality" merchandise that the public desires; "quality" that they desire to purchase, and not a clamor for low price that does not carry with it return of beauty, substantialness and service.

"Quality," Paramount to Price,
Will be the Guiding Motive of
Our Forthcoming Anniversary Sale

NOTE: Allay your apprehension that there will not be bargains to revel in. We have provided as never before. SAYS TROTZKY TRIED TO SELL OUT SOVIET

Harvard Man Says Leader Sought Cash to Flee With Young Woman

The latest report Bolshevism is uttering is brought to Boston by Richard Eaton, Harvard '20, a young Chicagoan who has been in Russia and the Far East for French and British newspapers.

Eaton, who will not reach his twenty-fifth birthday until next December, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. R. Eisenbrath of Chicago. Before entering college he legally changed his name.

According to Eaton, who was released from a Russian prison on August 12, last, the present crisis in Russia was caused by Trotzky's love for a beautiful young woman.

Eaton makes the sensational charge that Trotzky tried to sell his country out, and was caught in the act.

"PLOT" FOILED.

"Trotzky," Richard Eaton says, "approached the Grand Duke Nicholas and offered to turn over to him the powers of government in return for a passport vised for every country in Europe—and a cash settlement.

"Trotzky explained that he wanted to leave Russia and live the rest of his life in peace with the woman he was going to make his wife.

"Before his proposals could be considered, the plot was discovered and Trotzky is now in the South trying to organize the Cossack tribes in a revolt against Bolshevism."

Eaton is a guest at the Hotel Somerset. Bolshevism, he says, is split into two sections, one led by Kamenev and Zinoviev and the other composed of the younger men."

ARRESTED AS SPY.

Early last June, Eaton was arrested as a spy. His most thrilling experience was being brought before "Simanova the Merciless," the real chief, he says, of the foreign department of the Cheka. She is under thirty, beautiful and blonde, with innocent gray-blue eyes.

After questioning me at some length, she demanded that I confess I was a spy, and when I refused she turned to an assistant and said, 'He must be shot.'

"I was led downstairs to another dark room, little larger than a closet, to await the call of the executioner. At the end of 48 hours I was again taken before Simanova, who apologized for the inconvenience caused me, said she had been informed a mistake had been made and that I would be released immediately.

CHELSEA MAN HELD.

"Instead of the desirable liberty, however, I was taken to the Butirki prison on the outskirts of Moscow."

Describing the conditions he found at Butirki, Mr. Eaton said there were approximately 400 prisoners there, among them being eight of the nine archbishops who had defied the Bolshevist ban on religion. He was also surprised, yet glad, to meet a Massachusetts man among them, who said he was Peter Myers of Chestnut street, Chelsea, and happened to be in a very unenviable position.

3 SUSPECTS HUNTED IN PAYROLL THEFT

Three Cambridge men, long suspected of being members of a gang of automobile thieves, are being sought by police of Central Square station in connection with the daring holdup of Rufus A. Johnson, Central Trust bank messenger, who was robbed at gunpoint of the Elliott Addressing Machine Company's $5,800 payroll on Albany street, Cambridge.

Johnson was able to give the police a good description of the men, who made their getaway in a big touring car. Several witnesses told the police they saw the car going over Cottage Farm Bridge at terrific speed shortly after the holdup.

PARENTS CROSS CONTINENT TO AID McLEANS

Accused Bowdoin Student and Wife to Have Noted Maine Lawyer

Portland, Me., March 6.—Kenneth McLean, Bowdoin College student and son of a wealthy Tacoma, Wash., business man, who had been detained at the County Jail here for a week with his wife Nettie McLean on a technical charge of manslaughter in connection with the mysterious death of their year-old child, was released from custody after bail to the amount of $20,000 was furnished by the Portland, Me., Rotary Club.

Mrs. McLean was released on bail of $10,000 this week furnished by the Portland Lodge of Elks.

ILL FEELING DENIED.

Mrs. Oscar Volk, mother of Mrs. McLean, who came all the way from the State of Washington to see her daughter, arrived in Portland, on the same train with the McLean boy's father. It was reported here today that the McLeans will have the services of Ex-Judge George L. Emery of Biddeford, Me., noted Maine criminal lawyer, to defend them at their hearing in Brunswick, Me., on Saturday.

"I was surprised," she said, "to learn that my daughter was in Brunswick, Me., as I thought she had gone to Seattle to visit relations. She sent me a telegram when she arrived in Brunswick and another when the baby died. I saw my daughter in Portland and she is now in excellent spirits."

TEN MILLION AUTO "GYPSIES" IN 1923

Chicago, March 6.—Approximately ten million automobile campers hit the trails of the country in 1923, the touring bureau of the Chicago Motor Club estimates, at the same time predicting a considerable increase in the number of the "motor gypsies" this year.

Whipped Cream New German "Bootleg" Commodity

By C. D. TOLISCHUS.

Berlin, March 6 (Universal Wireless).—Whipped cream is the latest merchandise to be dealt in by German bootleggers.

What ice cream is to America whipped cream is to Germany. Its manufacture and sale is "verboten" because Berlin's milk supply is still only one-third of what it was before the war, but most of the restaurants and cafes carry the whipped cream and it is advertised openly in the shops.

This is taken as another sign of Germany's return to normalcy.

REGULATION OF MOTOR TRUCKS IS URGED

Bill Would Put Them Under Supervision of the Public Works Department

Regulation of motor trucks by the departments of public works and public utilities was urged today before the Committee on Street Railways by William F. Williams, commissioner of public works.

He said that, although motor trucks carrying freight should be regulated, the regulation should not be hostile to the development of the motor truck as a means of transportation.

The bill recommended by the department, he said, places this regulation in the hands of the division of highways in the department of public works.

Regulation of motor vehicles carrying passengers for hire, such as jitneys, would be placed in the department of public utilities under the bill.

Commissioner Williams pointed out that the motor truck should not be looked upon as purely a competitor of the railroads, and regulations made and fixed accordingly. He said the department believes the public has a right to the economic advantages offered by motor transportation.

MISS SPEVAK'S FIANCE NOW MISSING

Braudno, Betrothed to Miss Spevak, Has Not Been Seen for Some Time

With the discovery of the whereabouts of the missing Frances Spevak of Roxbury and the announcement that her scheduled wedding today to Moses Braudno, Washington street druggist, would not take place, it was learned that Braudno, too, has dropped out of sight.

As the parents of the girl left for her hiding place to bring their daughter back, the case seemed to retain the mysterious aspect it has held from the beginning.

The Spevaks refused to reveal the whereabouts of the girl, although they admitted she was within 50 miles of Boston.

Braudno's disappearance is believed to be due to disappointment over the indefinite postponement of the wedding. He could not be found at either his residence or his place of business.

RIVER DRAINED IN "MYSTERY" CASE IN MAINE

Follows Man's Disappearance and Departure of Wife With Ex-Convict Brother

Bangor, Me., March 6.—Hancock County authorities drained the river near Orland Falls in a search for the body of Emmons P. Gray, of Orland, who disappeared shortly before his wife, Mrs. Hilda P. Gray, eighteen years old, and her brother, Harold W. White, ex-convict, vanished.

Drainage of the river was ordered by Sheriff Westcott after persons living near Orland informed the authorities that they had seen a sleigh pass their house on the night of Gray's disappearance, bound for an open place in the river near Orland Falls and coming from the direction of the camp of the Grays.

The authorities also picked up a clew to the missing couple when they learned that a pair answering the description of Mrs. Gray and her brother left Bangor on the 1:35 train Wednesday for the West after having bought tickets for Pasadena, California.

The couple were reported carrying three heavy suit cases, a pasteboard suit-box and a hand bag. The woman believed to be Mrs. Gray is said to have kept a nervous watch on the suit cases while she was at the Penobscot Exchange Hotel, where the couple registered as "Mr. and Mrs. H. W. White, Bucksport."

County Attorney Whiting and Sheriff Westcott broadcast the descriptions of Gray, his wife and her brother to police all over the country. The missing wife is described as having reddish bobbed hair.

White and Gray were partners in the pulp-wood business here. White served two years in State's prison for breaking and entering, ten years for assault with intent to kill and was arrested for automobile stealing while on parole.

LORING SCORED FOR STOPPING WORK BY BLIND

Councillor Burrill Charges the Cambridge Shops Were Closed Unlawfully

Homer Loring, chairman of the State Commission on Administration and Finance, closed the Cambridge shops for the blind without authority, Charles L. Burrill, member of the Executive Council, told the House Committee on Ways and Means today.

Burrill stated the Governor and Council, in whom is reposed authority over the shops of the Division of the Blind, were not consulted by Loring.

Homer Loring

C. L. Burrill

It was said the Division of the Blind voted to close the shops last July on instructions from Loring.

The statements created an uproar among blind workers and sympathizers at a hearing on reopening of the Cambridge shops.

Councillor Burrill, appearing as a voluntary supporter of one of the bills, was questioned by Representative John Mitchell of Springfield of the committee.

Asked if the Governor and Council were not supreme in authority over the Division of the Blind, Councillor Burrill replied:

"It seems as though there is somebody bigger than the Governor and Council."

The case for the petitioners was handled by Representative Joseph L. Larsen of Everett. Since the closing of the shops, he said, the State had paid out in relief practically as much as the deficit from the operation of the shops.

Edward G. Mercier, leader of the blind workers, made a strong appeal for the reopening of the shops. He said the State Auditor's report proved the affairs of the Cambridge industry were mismanaged. He said the blind were unable to understand why the shops should be closed after sixteen years of improvement and progress.

DRUGGED! INDICAN Shows Why People Feel That Way

ASK your doctor about INDICAN. He will tell you it is a substance looked for in examining his patients thoroughly. If he finds it in you—it means that the poisons of constipation are seeping through your blood into every muscle and every joint. This is what does the damage. It robs you of your pep—it poisons your optimism and good spirit—it pales your face and puts blemishes there—it gives you headaches—causes indigestion, and wonder you feel dragged when constipated.

You can get only temporary relief from most laxatives. But Carter's Little Liver Pills, if has been found, not only "physic" the stomach, liver and intestines quickly, but also drive the INDICAN away.

Make this test: Have an analysis made of your specimen, and if there shows to be present the presence of INDICAN, or if you are in-how poisoned, you are immediately start taking Carter's little Liver Pills as prescribed by him, or according to directions. Now have another test made and see how the INDICAN disappears. See how your complexion brightens and clears, your tongue is sweet and clean, you can eat like a kid again, in most cases.

Important: Carter's Little Liver Pills, used for 47 years by millions of people all over the world, is a purely vegetable preparation and contains no drugs of any nature. It therefore acts in a natural way and is non-habit forming. Money refunded if results are not satisfactory.

He didn't know he was constipated—he felt "run down." See how the test proves he had INDICAN—the poison of constipation.

Same man after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills for only a few days—note the clean, normal specimen—FREE FROM ANY TRACE OF INDICAN.

BULLS SLAUGHTERED AT KING TUT'S TOMB

Luxor, Egypt, March 6.—Ancient customs and an impressive political demonstration today marked the official view of Tutankhamen's 3,000-year-old tomb in the Valley of Kings. Distinguished visitors arriving from Cairo included J. Morton Howell, American minister.

Two bulls were slaughtered and their blood mixed with the dust in the highway before the first car containing Egyptians passed.

Howard Carter, whose right to explore the tomb was revoked by the Egyptian government, is in Cairo awaiting a court decision on Saturday on his move to be appointed trustee of the tomb.

Marvelous Devices Used at Harvard Dental School

ARTIFICIAL SUNLIGHT TREATMENT

Dr. E. C. Cummings, head of the Harvard Dental School X-ray department, is treating a patient with the remarkable mercury vapor lamp which has just been installed at the school and is not yet used in any other American dental college. The lamp creates actinic energy, or artificial sunlight, which cures many diseased conditions of the teeth and mouth.

This is the eleventh of a series of articles which is a sequel to this newspaper's investigation of medical quackery in Greater Boston.

If you are not acquainted with reputable physicians and wish to make sure of obtaining expert advice and fair dealing, the series will show you how to avoid quacks by patronizing Boston's health centres, the best in the country.

An investment which pays 100 per cent., for value received, and which insures the investor against poor health, is not to be expected, and never realized through consultation with quack doctors.

Harvard Dental School of Harvard University, of which Dr. Eugene H. Smith, D. M. D., A. M., is dean, is provided with every known device for the benefit of mouth hygiene.

Clinics of various kinds are held from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M. under the supervision of specialists and every patient who undergoes treatment at this school, leaves with the assurance that work as perfect as possible has been performed.

ARTIFICIAL SUNSHINE.

A new apparatus, the only one used in a dental college in this country has just been installed at the Harvard Dental School. It is the mercury vapor lamp from which is derived actinic energy; or, artificial sunshine.

It is not to be confused with the violet ray or the ultra-violet ray. Its heat is so intense that in thirty seconds it can produce a sunburn that would require exposure of one and a half hours in the actual sunlight.

Light therapy has been used before by many reputable practitioners in the treatment of disease, but not in dentistry.

REMARKABLE RESULTS.

The purpose of this treatment, as applied to dentistry, is to alleviate pain in the sockets of the teeth immediately after extraction; to treat and absorb apical abscesses, inflammation of the mucuous membrane, pyorrhetic conditions of the alveolar bone, where the sockets for the teeth are situated and Vincent's infection, commonly known as trench mouth.

It is also used for treatment of diseased conditions about the mouth. It was stated at the school that a patient is at present undergoing treatment for the restoration of sensation in the lower jaw, which had been destroyed through a serious automobile accident. After each treatment this patient shows marked improvement, until he has now reached the stage where the skin is sensitive to the touch of the razor in shaving.

IS GERM KILLER.

In no instance is there an electrical contact with the patient in the administration of the actinic ray. The lamp itself, a water cooled device, is run by electricity, but two glass prongs from which the ray is thrown are the only part of the instrument which touch the patient's mouth.

The actinic ray is also a powerful germicidal agent.

The Actinic Clinic is almost exclusively for adults, as very few children have pyorrhetic conditions of the mouth.

Clinics are held Wednesdays and Saturdays from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M. under the direction of Dr. E. C. Cummings, head of the X-Ray Department, and for 20 years a professor at the Harvard Dental School.

CLINIC HOURS

Other clinic hours are:

Extraction Clinic daily from 2 to 5 p. m.

Major Clinics, surgical, Tuesdays and Fridays from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Examinations daily from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 2 to 5 p. m.

There are no age restrictions in this school. Adults and children of all ages may register there.

No charge is made for examinations. No admission fee is charged. All drugs and materials are furnished at cost.

Appointments may be made in person or by telephone, by calling Regent 2344.

MANY PATIENTS.

Patients who have proven to those in charge that they are unable to pay for treatment or materials, are given the same consideration as those who pay the full price, and only those who make such arrangements know about it.

Last year, 32,074 services of all kinds were rendered, exclusive of the orthodontia treatment, or treatments for irregularities of the teeth, of which there were 156. There is a greater demand for dental services in this line than the school can supply, Dr. Smith said, and he states that there is a very long waiting list.

Orthodontia Clinics, Tuesdays and Fridays from 4:00 to 6:00 P. M. under the supervision of five special ists.

ASKS "PADLOCK" STAY ON CHELSEA SALOON

Request for a "padlock injunction" against John J. White, proprietor of a near-beer saloon at No. 132 Winnisimmett street, Chelsea, a building owned by Chelsea Lodge of Elks, was made in United States District Court today by Assistant U. S. District Attorney Elihu Stone.

Stone said the Elks' lodge, as owner of the building, must be named in the request, under a provision of the prohibition law.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Is Grandmother's Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

STASIAK AND BAILEY READY FOR MAT TUSSLE TONIGHT

GRAPPLERS IN FINISH BATTLE

By JACK CONWAY

Farmer Bailey, the Brattleboro Strong Man, will go shooting in big company tonight. He is billed to battle Stanley Stasiak, mighty son of Poland, in a finish bout, best two falls out of three, at the Old Howard's show at the Grand Opera House.

There is tremendous interest in this contest. This is due to the fact Bailey has class, also on account of his unique methods of forcing Stasiak to sign articles for tonight's match.

Bailey tired of hurling challenges at the mighty Pole. So he carried his case to the public. He went out into the public square, as Socrates did years ago, and told the fans in straight, from the shoulder fashion why he thought he could vanquish Stasiak. He then asked their support. They not only signed a petition for a bout between Stasiak and Bailey, but they kept riding the Pole. His finally weakened and consented to the match.

You will see real, bitter grappling tonight. The wrestler will realize he has been in a regular quarrel. Stasiak will undoubtedly have to battle with the crowd when he goes for Bailey. The latter has made himself a favorite by his unique methods of going after a bout. The fans would now like to see him toss Stasiak for a loss.

ANGELO TARAMASCHI WILL ALSO SHOW CLASS

Angelo Taramaschi, Italian heavyweight champion, will also be on tonight's card. He is booked to battle Jack Albright of Chicago in a one fall match. The men are well matched and are sure to furnish a bout which will be replete with tense moments.

GARDNER AND FRIEDMAN ON AT ARMORY CLUB

Spenser Gardiner, Newport, R. I. bantamweight, and Abe Friedman, New England bantamweight champion, are expected to furnish a lively battle when they clash in a ten-round tussle at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday night.

It will be the third time these men have clashed under the flickering calcium. Friedman won the first bout, Gardner the second. Naturally each will make a mighty bid to grab the honors in the "rubber" contest.

There will also be three eights. Louis Seaver of this city will meet Frankie Day of Worcester, while Frankie Merna of South Boston will quarrel with Billy Reckiaw of the North End. A third eight will be arranged today.

The Tripie A. announces there will be popular prices for the Lew Tendler-Sailor Friedman bout at Mechanics Building on March 25 despite the fact the boxers will receive heavy guarantees.

AMATEUR BOXING ALWAYS GIVE FANS THRILLS.

If you crave for ring action, drop in at the St. Joseph's T. A. Society's boxing tournament at Commercial Hall, Boylston square, tonight. President Billy Cuddy announces that a large number of entries have been received and that there will be an abudant of fast action.

There will be bussies for novices at 108 and 118 pounds, and in the heavyweight division, while the 126 and 147 pound classes will be open. A few brave amateur boxers all have hopes of busting into the ranks of the Olympic team, competition in the various classes is sure to be keen.

We know many men who always attend important amateur shows who never are seen at the ringside when the professionals are battling. Apparently the simon-pure give them more action.

LARRY LEAVITT ON GREEN'S TITLE TEAM

Hanover, N. H., March 5.—Larry Leavitt, Dartmouth star fullback, jumped into basketball fame when, as a member of the Kappa Psi team, he helped to win the college fraternity title over the Alpha Delta Phi quintet, 19 to 12.

Leavitt scored two baskets in the most spectacular fashion and aided considerably on the defence by close guarding when the opponents uncorked a rally in the last few minutes of play.

Captain Fred Hurd, of Jamaica Plain, who piloted the team through a series of victories in February, led the victors throughout the contest and made possible by accurate passing several of the points which brought the championship to Phi Kappa Psi.

A large silver cup will be awarded to the winner, and a trophy to the runner-up.

Jack Conway Picks Stasiak to Win Over Bailey

Jack Conway, Boxing Editor of the Boston American and holder of the world's record for picking winners, is once more knocking out tungos in the Prophets' League. Jack says:

"I am picking Stanley Stasiak, great Polish wrestler, to win over Farmer Bailey in their finish bout at the Old Howard's show at the Grand Opera House tonight. Bailey, the strongest man in the mat game, will make Stasiak realize he's been in a regular contest before the affair ends.

"There are many fans who figure Bailey will finish out front. Wladek Zbyszko, who has absolutely no love for Stasiak, holds a similar view. We are nevertheless going to let our reputation ride with Stasiak. We are picking Taramaschi to win from Albright.

Jack has picked thirty-four winners out of a possible thirty-seven this year.

NORTHEASTERN CLOSES WITH TUFTS

Northeastern will close their basketball season this evening with what is expected to be their hardest fought game, when they meet Tufts. Coach Rufus Bond has the engineers in excellent condition and playing their best basket ball.

Rufus Bond

The line-up will be Sylvester and Jansseu, forwards; Urquhart, centre, and Captain Barton and Zak, guards.

Although the engineers have been up against some of the fastest college teams in New England, they have won about 50 per cent. of their games, and have developed a fighting game that may get them the decision against Tufts.

This is the first year Coach Bond, former football and basketball star, has had the Northeastern team.

Next year he will have all of his first string men back, and all, except two of his subs.

FARRELL AND MAGEE GET OLYMPIC JOBS

Eddie Farrell, track coach at Harvard and Jack Magee, Bowdoin track tutor, will be appointed assistant Olympic track coaches at the meeting of the Olympic committee to be held at New York Saturday.

At Saturday's meeting the list of coaches will be announced and all details for the Paris Olympics will be concluded. The managers of the various teams also will be named.

Methods to raise the allotments of the various cities to support the games also will be considered by the committee at the meeting.

Notable Gallery Sees Palm Beach Tennis

By VINCENT RICHARDS.

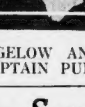
Palm Beach, Fla., March 6.—One of the most notable galleries that has ever watched a tennis match at America's playground was clustered around the splendid clay courts of the Everglades Club at Palm Beach Hotel to see the end of the fourth round in the Florida State championships.

Only eight men, Ralph L. Buggs, E. C. Barke, Frank Ferguson, G. X. Pfingst, Gus Gienos, Robert Leroy, Dickinson and the writer were survivors in the singles.

Thirteen teams were drawn in the doubles event and ten will strive for the mixed doubles honors.

All the singles encounters, which drew most of the attention, were worthy of the scrutiny paid them.

Perhaps the most bitterly fought match of the entire day came when Jarvis Adams opposed Bert Pfingst. This match provided many lengthy rallies that drew round after round of applause from the huge throng that surrounded the clubhouse enclosure.



Vin Richards

Although Pfingst finally emerged victorious after he was on the court almost three hours, the score of 6—3, 8—6, 6—4, well tells the tale how he was forced to play in order to achieve his victory.

Pfingst, by the way, will be remembered a few years back as one of the leading players of Philadelphia, when only a freshman at the University of Pennsylvania he gave promise of future greatness. Business has kept him away from the courts, but, with more time to play tennis, he has returned to such good form that many critics pick him as promising material.

THERE WILL BE A MERRY BATTLE FOR HOT CORNER.

It would not surprise me to see him reach the final round of the championship.

Buggs, Leroy, Furguson and Barke won their matches in easy fashion.

The doubles championship was opened with fitting gusto when Arthur Hammerstein and K. J. F. Sumner opposed R. A. Buggs and son in the first match.

In the most unusual game the writer has ever witnessed Hammerstein literally threw the most peculiar of the four men in this encounter.

The theatrical producer never takes a ball on his forehand. Rather he continually runs around the ball so that his stroke is made on the left hand side. He explained this to me after the match.

SLIPPED AND FELL ON SHOULDER PLAYING HANDBALL

Some years ago when playing handball he slipped and landed on his shoulder. This created a condition similar to "Charlie Horse." Since then he never can extend his arm all the way around; he must run around the ball to get it on his backhand.

It would be well for many of the younger players throughout America if they had something like this happen to them for a time when they learn to play the game.

We undoubtedly would not see so many cases of backhanding among the younger players if this condition existed.

The final round in the singles championship is planned for tomorrow afternoon, while the doubles and mixed doubles events will be held over for Saturday.

SPAIN SENDS ENTRY LIST FOR OLYMPICS

Paris, March 6.—Spain has forwarded her official entry list for the 1924 Olympic games.

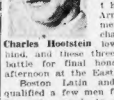
Spain will send between 140 and 150 competitors.

Combs Holds Out on Yanks

Richmond, Ky., March 6.—Combs, holdout recruit outfielder of the Yankees, has signed as assistant coach at the Eastern Kentucky Normal School. G. N. Hembree, coach made the announcement.

ENGLISH LEADS THE CITY HIGH SCHOOLS

English High school looms as the probable winner in the first annual athletic meet for the Boston City schools. English is expected to qualify a number of boys in field relay and track events in the Class A meet at the Armory. Commerce and Mechanics Arts followed close behind, and these three schools will battle for final honors tomorrow afternoon at the East Armory.



Charles Hootstein

Boston Latin and Dorchester, qualified a few men for the finals, but not enough to endanger the chances of English.

Leo Fallon of Mechanics ran away with the 1,000-yard run. Collins of Commerce and Colton of English finished second and third in the other heats. Oliver of English, James and Foley of Commerce, Marquis of Dorchester, and McLaughlin of Latin qualified for the finals.

McKinney, the Mechanics flyer, turned in the fastest time in the 600 yard run. Hart of Commerce, Diamond, Giardino and Collerton of English also qualified in this event.

Sullivan and Nolan of Latin School, Hootstein of English, and Westbrook of Commerce were the only men to qualify in the 1000-yard run. Sullivan is favored to win in the final, but he will be pressed hard by the other three qualifiers.

The senior dash event was one of the best of the afternoon. Levine of Commerce, Hearn of Dorchester, Swift of Mechanics, Greason, Scott and McLaughlin of English will fight it out in the final.

Nine qualified for the finals in the hurdles. Of the nine, four were English colors. They are McDonald, Plahive, Grossman and Maguire, Goldman of Latin, Grafinger of Commerce, Cummings of Mechanics, Leary and Noble of Dorchester also qualified in this event.

English High also led in the number of qualifiers in the junior and intermediate events.

Eight in Yale Tourney

New Haven, Ct., March 6.—Eight high schools of Connecticut are entered in the Yale interscholastic basketball tournament to be held at the Yale gymnasium tomorrow and Saturday.

Wladek Zbyszko Agrees to Battle Stasiak Again

Wladek Zbyszko, The Mighty Son of Poland, has finally heeded the challenges of Stanley Stasiak and has covered the $1,000 posted by the latter for a return match. Details and articles will be signed today and the date set for the contest.

Zbyszko, however, leaves a loop for himself. In the event that Farmer Bailey beats Stasiak tonight the match is off. Zibby has picked Bailey to win.

FLOCK OF STARS OUT TO MAKE TUFTS TEAM

Joe Kennedy and Captain Mike Crowley, veteran Tufts College outfielders, have donned their uniforms ready to participate in the work outs for the season. Kennedy is regarded as one of the heaviest hitting gardeners that ever played for Tufts, while his teammate, Crowley, batted for well over the .300 mark last season.

Joe Kennedy

Seven other candidates also reported to fill the outfield vacancy.

"Red" Bourrett, who is the most prominent candidate for the open backstop berth, has the earmarks of a comer and Coach Nash is of the opinion that he will win the regular berth before the season opens.

The infield candidates failed to show up to last year's standing, although Nash believes that he can develop a capable quartet that will equal that of any college in the East.

Art Kattari, veteran left-hand twirler, was tossing across the plate in rare form. Kattari did very little pitching last season, and he is out to show his wares against Northwestern next month.

Armand Chandonnett, another pitching prospect, was on hand. Chandonnett is likely to divide the mound duties with Kattari.

Outdoor practice session will be held early next week.

YALE'S SIX CANNOT PLAY MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., March 6.—Yale University athletic authorities rejected the proposal of the University of Minnesota for a six game ice hockey game series to decide the collegiate championship of the United States.

J. T. Blossom, athletic director at Yale, in a telegram asserted it was impossible for the Yale team to come west because of a rule that prohibits post-season inter-sectional athletic contests.

MOONRAKER BREAKS THE TRACK RECORD

New Orleans, March 6.—The Whitney colt Moonraker, with Johnny Corcoran up, equalled the five furlong track record at Jefferson Park when he won the first race of the Spring meeting at Jefferson Park. The colt went the distance in one minute.

The Ferdinands-Jones, McDuffee & Stratton Co. match was not rolled.

Kurland of Filene's, with 123, had the high individual single string, and Rubino of Filene's, with 226, had the highest individual three-string total.

Filene's, with 1219, had the highest three-string team total, and set a new league record for the season. Filene's, with 524, also had the high team single string total.

NORTHEASTERN PICKS TEAM TO MEET TECH

Northeastern Engineering School freshmen participated in track preliminaries at the Huntington avenue gymnasium, when Coach Parsons picked the freshman squad that will meet M. I. T. Freshmen at the Engineers' gymnasium Saturday afternoon.

According to the dope and the time trials Northeastern will win by a comfortable margin. Tech freshmen lost both of their meets; while the Engineers won their first meet from Worcester Tech in recent meets; Charles Hunt, a placer in the mile events, Sandstrom, shot put pointer of the B. U. meet; Warren, who took first in the high jump against B. U. and Murry, winner of the 600-yard run in the previous meets, are eligible for the freshman meet.

CHAMPION ROSE HAS LEAD ON SEEBACK

At the end of the first block of 50 points in the challenge match for the New England three-cushion billiard championship, played at the State Theatre Club, Robert J. Rose, champion, led Charles Seaback, 50 to 44.

The feature of the game was the comeback of Rose in the final innings of the game. At one point he trailed by thirteen points. High run for both was four, and the game required 86 innings.

The match is resumed in the second block tonight.

PIPP AND WITT GET IN LINE FOR YANKS

New York, March 6.—The Yankees' list of holdouts was reduced when they signed contracts of Wallie Pipp, first baseman, and Whitey Witt, centre fielder, were received at the offices of the local American League Club. The only other members of the world's champions who have not signed are Bob Shawkey, Aaron Ward, Bob Meusel and Herb Pennock.

Pennock asks for a salary of $12,000, an increase of $4,000 over last year's wages.

CLEVELAND CLUB TO CARRY 10 PITCHERS

Cleveland, March 6.—Cleveland probably will carry ten pitchers this season, Manager Tris Speaker announced on his arrival at Hot Springs. The list may be increased to eleven or twelve, however, if the showing of enough recruits warrants.

Mulvihill Beats Jake Driscoll in 600

New York, March 6.—"Jake" Driscoll in a brilliant burst of speed failed to overhaul Walter Mulvihill, New England champion, in the 600-yard race for the A. A. U. title.

Loren Murchison

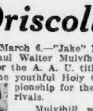
Mulvihill, the youthful Holy Cross runner won a national championship for the first time from a fleet field of six rivals.

Mulvihill was forced to withstand a terrific challenge in the last quarter of a lap by Driscoll and then collapsed just after he broke the tape a foot in front of his veteran rival.

Mulvihill took the lead at the gun and held it to the finish in spite of desperate efforts by Driscoll, Vincent Lally, Ray Robertson, B. A. A.; Willie Kelly, Newark A. C.; Ray Dodge and Ray Watson, both of Illinois A. C.

Watson, who did not defend his 1000 yard title, never seriously threatened and finished fifth.

The first record to tumble occurred in the 16 pound shot put, when Ralph Hills, Princeton giant, broke the indoor A. A. U. championship mark with a heave of 47 feet, 11 inches and captured the event. The former record of 47 feet 7½ inches was made in 1917, by Pat MacDonald, New York A. C., who finished third. Hill's mark however was 5½ inches less than his own world's indoor record.



Joie Ray

Harold Osborne, of the Illinois A. C., world's indoor record holder and defending champion, tied for first place with Dick Landen, of the New York A. C., Olympic title holder, in the running high jump at six feet four inches. The Westerner won the jump off to determine the medal winner after he and Landen failed in attempts to set a new world's mark of six feet six inches.

LOREN MURCHISON RETAINED INDOOR TITLE.

Loren Murchison, flashy Newark A. C. sprinter and national outdoor champion, retained his indoor title at 60 yards when he beat C. H. Coaffee, Illinois A. C., a newcomer to national titular competition, by a yard.

Coaffee, a former Canadian title-holder, won his preliminary heat and was at Murchison's heels in the final.

Joie Ray, Illinois A. C. star, raced to decisive victory in the two mile run. Ray lapped a field of six rivals and conquered two of his foremost rivals, Verne Booth, Johns Hopkins, and Robert E. Brown, B. A. A., who finished second and third.

BOOTH CROSS-COUNTRY CHAMPION, SET PACE.

Booth, the interscholastic cross-country champion, set the pace and for ten of the sixteen laps, Ray then took the lead and set a terrific pace that in three laps shook off Brown who had stuck to Joe's heels. Booth spurted in the last lap and a half to passed Brown and drew up to within 25 yards of Ray at the finish.

Ray's time was a fast one, performance in the 200-yard dash, which he also won for the second straight year. Murchison showed his foremost rivals, Robert Bertram and Robert E. Brown, B. A. A., who finished second and third.

FRANKIE ASH IS AFTER GENARO BATTLE

Joe Jacobs writes:

"What's the matter with Frankie Genaro, the American flyweight champion? For almost a year Genaro and his manager, Phil Bernstein, have been raising a fuss and cry that Pancho Villa, the world's title holder, is sidestracking him, although he holds two decisions over the Manila terror and a number victory besides. All well and good.

"The very same thing about which Genaro complains, sidestepping by the world's champion, is now being followed by the American champion, given an opportunity to be the headliner at the greatest boxing show staged here in years and for the benefit of a cause ever, namely, the raising of funds for the American athletes to the Olympic games. Genaro immediately says no to the opponent selected for him.

Imagine an American champion turning down an offer to battle for a cause sponsored by the United States and for which he was to be amply reimbursed! What looked like it would be one of the greatest flyweight fights staged in years, with an international aspect as well, went up in smoke when Genaro and his manager, Phil Bernstein, turned down the proposition to meet Frankie Ash, the new "Mighty Atom."

Ash's manager, Joe Jacobs, was quick to accept the offer made to him to battle Genaro as the headliners in the Garden show. March 15, the proceeds to go to the fund being raised to defray expenses of the American team to be sent to the Olympic games in Paris. Bernstein at first said he would be glad to have Genaro meet Ash, realizing the importance of such a meeting. The first thing he knew, a few days later while later Bernstein announced that under no conditions would Frankie Ash, that if Genaro fought on the program he would be with a bantam and not with a flyweight. Think of it, here's a combination complaining that Villa has been ducking Genaro by taking on bantamweights, yet the very practice they talk about is being followed by them.

"Ash would only be pleased at the chance offered to meet America's best and quickly accepted. The little Brooklyn wanted to show the American public that he is the greatest piece of fighting machinery of his weight turned out in England since the palmy days of Jimmy Wilde. Genaro, a home product, threw a monkey wrench into the works by refusing to fight, thinking the issue the lame excuse that he would only meet a bantam."

John McGowan, Jr., to Lead Colby

Another Cambridge young man comes into prominence by being selected to captain the 1924-5 hockey team of Colby College. He is John McGowan, Jr., who formerly attended Cambridge Latin.

There is a good chance for the American Olympic committee to get a few dollars by putting over a post-season hockey series for B. C. with Princeton, Yale and Dartmouth.

WOMEN AMONG THE WINNERS IN BASEBALL PICTURE CONTEST

HUNDREDS OF FANS REPLY

The first ten who picked the name of Norman McMillan of the Red Sox, whose picture appeared in Tuesday's American, are as follows:

John J. Mooney, No. 18 King street, Dorchester.

Joseph King, No. 41 Julian street, Malden.

George Kelley, No. 3 Lamson street, East Boston.

Charles Freeman, Hollis street, Groton.

William Fitzgerald, No. 37 Robinhood avenue, Jamaica Plain.

Walter L. Newell, Chiswick street, Foxboro.

Clifford Gorman, No. 433 Main street, Winchester.

Dorothy Rogers, Palmer avenue, Falmouth.

John F. Shea, No. 57 Albee street, Fitchburg.

Gussie DeFozio, No. 17 East Forester street, Melrose.

Among the ten ticket winners was Miss Dorothy Rogers of Falmouth. Miss Rogers is one of the many women who have sent results in the Baseball Picture Contest and it is surprising how many of the fair followers of the game picked the correct player.

ANSWERS TO NUMBER TWO TWICE AS MANY

The answers to picture number two were almost twice the number that were received for the first picture. The contest does not forced to work overtime in order to see that no one who sent in a reply was overlooked.

Many fans who think they know every player in both leagues certainly must have been napping judging from the names that were tacked on to McMillan's picture. To obtain a name was the guess of several hundred many. It is of the fact that the American gave the tip that the picture was that of a Boston player, limited on picking players from Cincinnati and Detroit.

MANY REPLIES RECEIVED WITHOUT THE NUMBER

Many replies to picture number were received yesterday, without the number of the picture appearing on the envelopes. The editor will examine all letters that were received up to last night, but the picture in letter will be considered unless the contestant writes the number of the picture in the lower left hand corner of the envelope.

Replies should be addressed thus,

Baseball Picture Contest Editor,
Boston American
No. 4 80 Summer St., Boston

This will save the editor useless work of examining replies to previous pictures after the time for receiving them has closed

PLENTY OF TICKETS ARE STILL LEFT

There are still plenty of tickets left, and those who have guessed the correct title, but who have not been among the lucky ones, still have a good opportunity.

Mail your letter early, but be careful that you look at the picture long enough to be sure of the identity of the player. Watch tomorrow's paper for the winners of yesterday. Your name may be among them.

SOX MANAGER SAYS HE IS THE BOSS

HOPE FOR BONUS IN COMMITTEE REPORT TODAY

Majority Favor Some Kind of Compensation; Cash Plan Has Chance

By WINDER R. HARRIS

(Universal Service Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 6—A cash bonus, coupled with a paid-up insurance option, for soldiers of the World War loomed up as a strong possibility when the House Ways and Means Committee on bonus bill to be reported out was expected to be reached today. There is no longer any doubt that a majority of the committee favors some kind of adjusted compensation legislation.

The eleven Democratic members of the committee probably will vote in a unit for the cash feature, it was declared by some of their leaders. In addition, Representative Tyson, Progressive Republican, of Wisconsin, is counted on to vote for the same way. Representative Young Republican of North Dakota also plans to side with the majority of witnesses that the bonus be paid in cash.

That lineup would produce a tie 12 to 12, in the committee, with all members present.

Representative Ogden Mills, Republican, of New York, one of the leading opponents of any kind of bonus legislation, indicated if a bill in any form is to be reported out the cash plan is the best in his opinion. Should such fail, Mills said, he would be two or three of the nine opponents who will follow it to the floor with a minority report.

POPE CREATES 2 AMERICAN CARDINALS

Pius XI. Will Confer Red Hats on Archbishops Hayes and Mundelein

Rome, March 6—Rumors that the red hat of the Cardinalate has fallen on two American prelates—Archbishop Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago—are confirmed at the Vatican.

The ritualistic investiture will take place during the Easter consistory, the ceremony for which are already under way.

Archbishop Hayes — Archbishop Mundelein

The decision of Pope Pius XI to name two more American cardinals will make four in all from the United States who occupy seats in the Sacred College. At no time in history has America had more than three cardinals. The two present representatives in the college from the United States are Cardinal O'Connell of Boston and Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia.

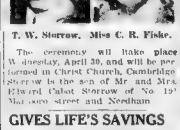
Hayes and Mundelein Are Going to Europe

New York, March 6 (Universal)—Archbishop Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago have engaged passage on the Cunard Liner Berengaria which sails Saturday.

Their immediate destination is Paris, but from there they will go to Rome in time to attend the Lenten consistory at the Vatican March 30 and receive their red hats.

HARVARD GRAD TO WED BACK BAY GIRL

One of the first marriages of interest to take place in Boston in the spring will be that of Thomas W Storrow graduate of Harvard in the class of 1915, and Miss Cornelia H. Fiske daughter of Charles H. Fiske, of No. 104 Marlboro street.



T. W. Storrow. Miss C. R. Fiske.

The ceremony will take place Wednesday, April 30, and will be performed in Christ Church, Cambridge. Storrow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dalton Storrow of No. 197 Marlboro street and Needham.

GIVES LIFE'S SAVINGS TO AID HOSPITAL

The new million-dollar Beth Israel Hospital, the gift of the Jews of the city, for the people of Boston—will be located on Longwood avenue, it was announced by Al A. Rosenbush, chairman of the campaign.

The announcement of an unsolicited contribution of $23,000 made by Alfred Adamsky, a retired pedlar, was received with considerable enthusiasm. The contribution, Mr. Rosenbush stated represented the savings of Mr. Adamsky, who came here from Russia forty-one years ago, and with a pack on his back started to make his fortune.

back up, be arrogant and take hold of the world."

He says teachers alone can improve life. That's true, and that is what they have been doing ever since teaching began.

IF TEACHERS, from Socrates, Aristotle and Plato, to the young woman that teaches your little boy in the public school, hadn't "taken hold of the world," civilization wouldn't be where it is now. And, by the way, if the Catholic Church had not established great universities in the Middle Ages, science wouldn't be where it is now.

HUGH A. D'ARCY, who wrote that sad poem, "The Face on the Barroom Floor," celebrated his eighty-first birthday yesterday. Perhaps you know the poem. Anyhow, it's too sad to print here. It will surprise you to learn that Mr. D'Arcy doesn't believe in Prohibition. He says: "I have been drinking moderately ever since I was twenty years old." That makes sixty-one years, and he says prohibition has made more hard drinkers than there ever were before. He thinks there is what the French call a juste milieu, between falling dead on the barroom floor and trying to invite your soul by drinking soda pop.

NOTICE to American shoemakers:

Your German brothers have an idea. They make shoes with uppers of plaited leather strips. That makes tighter shoes possible and makes thick ankles look thinner.

There is profit in such shoes, although women are foolish to hate thick ankles, as they do.

The Great Bertha whose name appears in Villon's poem about "The Snows of Yesteryear," had very thick ankles and very big feet, but she was the mother of Charlemagne. That's better than having very thin ankles and being the mother of a lounge lizard.

HOW LONG will it take bankers to understand that more automobiles mean, not extravagance, but more efficiency, more health, more saving of time, higher production at less cost, longer life?

Every dollar that bankers put into automobile production is a dollar invested in greater prosperity and greater happiness.

Isn't that a good investment?

Bankers wouldn't worry if they found cornfields producing more corn. Why worry because automobile factories are producing more automobiles?

THE FRENCH franc felt a little better yesterday, although you can still get twenty-four francs for $1. The sickest money yesterday was Spanish, the pesets, selling only a little above twelve cents. That shows how things change. When the war was on and exports of gold from the United States were forbidden, you could buy two dollars' worth of American money in Spain with one dollar's worth of Spanish money. That was a chance to make a good investment.

HOME FURNISHERS HOLD 18TH BANQUET

Colonel Charles R. Gow, president of the Boston City Club, one of the speakers at the eighteenth annual banquet of the Home Furnishers' Association of America at the Hotel Vendome, declared that: "Today indifference has become America's besetting sin." He further declared that he didn't fear the forces of anarchy. "It is the retreat of the responsible, the indifference that lets seem the activity of those responsible," said he.

When Colonel Henry L. Kincaide as toastmaster, introduced Colonel Gow he said he would like to see him a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

President George L. Avery said that while 1923 was a very good year in the home furnishing trade, there isn't any reason why 1924 shouldn't be better. Also that a committee had been appointed during the day to consider the plan of having a "Home Making Week" throughout the State.

Barrett Andrews, publisher of the Boston American, also addressed the club.

GIRL IS BANDIT CHIEF, SAYS HUB GANGSTER

Only 19, but Leads 25 Desperate Criminals in Western Raids

Cincinnati, O., March 6—Vera McDonal, 19, alias Ethel Smith, Indianapolis, is held here following a confession by James O'Conner, Boston, that he was a member of a gang of twenty-five criminals, of which, he said, the McDonal girl was the leader.

O'Connor told the police the gang operated in and out of this city. He admitted knowing members of the alleged band of robbers, and that she had accompanied them to restaurants and other places, but stated she never was present when robberies were taking place.

O'Connor confessed he had committed several robberies and also furnished the names of other members of the band, who, he said, still are in Cincinnati. He said he met the McDonal girl and her sweetheart at Columbus two weeks ago.

WORK IN MILLS IS KILLING MOTHERS

High Mortality Among Married Women in New England Industries

Washington, March 6—Uncle Sam says the employment of married women in industry is a detriment to coming generations.

Experts of the women's bureau of the Labor Department have completed a study of conditions under which 2,000 women work in American industries.

In New England industrial centers the investigators found in many towns a direct relationship between the high infant mortality rate and employment of mothers in factories.

In Manchester, N. H., the mortality among the children of mothers who went out to work during the first year of the baby's life was 227 out of every 1,000, as compared with 133 for babies of mothers who remained at home and were not gainfully employed.

In New Bedford, Mass., the infant death rate was 167 per thousand for babies of mothers working away from home, and 105 for babies of mothers not employed.

LYNN POLICEMAN NABS 2 BURGLARS

Police 'Rob' Gov. Cox of 25 Dollar Cigars

ACCUSED BY HUBBY OF SEEKING OTHER MEN

MRS. HARRIET P. O'BRIEN

Wife of rich Haverhill Express Company owner, whose marriage has been found illegal because O'Brien omitted knowingly wedding her before his divorce from his second wife became absolute.

SOUND AND FURY AS WATER BILL IS SETTLED

Hot Words, Girls Scream and Then Someone Touches Burglar Alarm

Girls screamed, someone stepped on the burglar alarm and the police department turned out en masse today when Patrick French, local real estate owner of Peabody, visited the Peabody City Hall to pay his water bill.

French went to the city collector's office and offered a check in payment for the bill. M. J. Sherry, the collector, refused to take a check and demanded cash. There was some argument, but French went out and got the cash.

On his return he paid the bill and a loud verbal battle followed. The argument waxed so loud that three girls in the office became frightened and started yelling. One of them stepped on the burglar alarm and in a few moments Inspector Pierce and five officers dashed into the collector's office.

When they appeared French turned on his heel in disgust and walked out, leaving the explanations up to the collector's office force.

DULL DAY FOR TWO HARD WORKING YEGGS

Thieves broke into the plant of the Lovejoy Manufacturing Company, No. 37 Brighton avenue, Allston, and the offices of the Henry Murray Company, No. 343 North Beacon street, Allston. They broke four windows getting into the Lovejoy building. They broke the handle and combination of the office safe and got nothing. They rolled an automobile to the door of the plant in an effort to get it out, so they took two auto tires and left.

At the Murray Company they ransacked the desk and got nothing.

LOSES NO. 3 AND ALL ALIMONY

Haverhill Woman Finds Her Third Wedding Was Held Too Soon

Lawrence, March 6.—Mrs. Harriet P. O'Brien of No. 289 Mill street, Haverhill, is today without a husband and without alimony.

Since her separation from her wealthy husband, Wiley O'Brien, owner of the Boston & Haverhill Express Company, Mrs. O'Brien has been receiving a weekly allowance from him.

Then suddenly O'Brien decided to cut her allowance to $25 a week. The wife was far from agreeable to this and she brought suit for separate support, seeking a larger allowance.

MARRIAGE VOID.

In Essex County Divorce Court, O'Brien scored a victory that will make it unnecessary for him to contribute from the $25 weekly to Mrs. O'Brien's support. Judge Harry H. Dow not only refused to grant the suit for separate support but also declared the marriage of the couple null and void on the grounds that it was contracted in Maine before O'Brien's divorce from his former wife became absolute.

During the hearing, O'Brien gave as his reasons for leaving Mrs. O'Brien after a little more than two years of married life, that she was entirely too friendly with other men and was unkind to his son by a former marriage.

WIFE NO. 3.

Mrs. O'Brien is No. 3 in O'Brien's matrimonial ventures. He is also her second husband. He has one son by a previous marriage and she has two daughters by a former marriage.

O'Brien admitted in court that he knowingly married Mrs. O'Brien before his divorce from his second wife became absolute. The couple went to Biddeford, Me., and were married January 1, 1921, although his divorce decree did not become absolute in Massachusetts until March 18, 1921.

Mrs. O'Brien pleaded that she went through the ceremony in good faith. In announcing his decision declaring the marriage null and void, Judge Dow declared he would interpret the wife acted in good faith and upon this decision would depend whether or not O'Brien would be required to pay his wife's counsel fees.

The couple were married after a whirlwind romance at Hampton Beach where O'Brien maintained a summer home. They returned to Haverhill where O'Brien, lacking a permanent residence in his wife's name and presented her with an automobile and a saddle horse. He presented cancelled checks in court showing that he spent more than $4,500 on his wife soon after they were married.

GEN. COLE RECOVERS TAG LOST IN FRANCE

An identification tag and watch chain, lost by Brigadier General Charles H. These were called "dog" tags by the doughboys.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

For Sick Headache

PROBE BY U. S. JURY OPENED

Edward A. Brady & Co. (out of business), formerly at No. 91 Cedar park, Melrose.

Thomas J. McAuliffe, No. 43 State street.

W. F. Murray & Co., No. 68 Devonshire street.

Edward C. Morris, & Co. No. 27 Exchange street.

Withington & Co. (suspended yesterday), No. 27 State street.

Warren W. Withington, doing business as Withington & Co., said to be a subsidiary of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., was petitioned into bankruptcy today by five creditors with aggregate claims of $23,200.

These creditors are:

Melkon G. Nemdalian of Watertown, with claim of $1,800.

Pasquale Catino, Revere, claim of $7,000.

Gerardo Riccio, Revere, claim of $7,200.

Manook Smyrlian, Boston, claim of $3,700.

Thomas Korukian, Boston, claim of $3,500

30,000 INVESTORS.

Byron Hall, postal inspector, who is understood to have conducted an investigation that led to the Grand Jury action today, also was to testify.

Federal officers place the number of investors with G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., at 10,000 in New England and 30,000 throughout the country.

A conservative estimate of the average amount these 20,000 investors had on deposit with the brokers when the crash came is $200, making a total of $4,000,000.

About 40 per cent. of the New England investors were women and the total investment of both men and women investors in this district is estimated at $2,000,000.

PROBED FOR MONTHS

Two matters of intense interest were scheduled for the day following the bursting of the Redmond bubble. These are:

1—The appearance before the Federal Grand Jury at the Federal Building of a number of Postoffice attaches, under Inspector Byron Hall, with a scheduled report of their investigation into the activities of the Redmond concern for the past several months. Observers hold it to be clear that the Postoffice Department seeks an indictment for the alleged use of the mails with intent to defraud.

2—Action by Judge Morton in the United States District Court on a petition for the appointment of a receiver by the three creditors who, yesterday, with the co-operation of Redmond's Boston manager, petitioned the firm into involuntary bankruptcy.

POLICEMEN HIT

Study of the groups who have come clamoring for their money at the home office in Boston and at branch offices in Providence, Worcester, Hartford, Ct., and Manchester, N. H., all of which are now under padlock, indicates that the Greeks have been among Redmond's best customers, and that firemen and policemen were also influenced by the roseate promises of Redmond's literature or the persuasiveness of the sales force.

The doors of all the Redmond offices closed with a bang following the filing in Boston of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy and the action of Judge Morton in immediately placing the Boston offices in charge of United States Marshal William J. Keville.

ADMIT BANKRUPTCY

The bankruptcy proceedings were of the sort sometimes characterized as "friendly." The petitioners are not Redmond investors, so far as is revealed by their petition, but, on the contrary, men lately who had furnished the concern with supplies.

One of them, Max S. Kitchen, has a claim of $421 for merchandise; another, Blake & Rohlan Co., $1239 for merchandise, and the third, the Boston Envelope Company, $1,218, also for merchandise. In their petition the claim was made that:

"The corporation cannot meet its obligations in the ordinary course of its business. * * * The foregoing allegations are made upon information furnished to us by G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc."

There was no surprising as the petition and the paragraph just quoted was the affidavit filed simultaneously in the United States District Court by President James Lamont, the youthful president of the alleged bankrupt concern.

"I, James S. Lamont, president of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., the alleged bankrupt, and am familiar with its affairs, have read the petition of Kirchen and Blake that a receiver be appointed, and know of my own knowledge that the facts therein contained are true.

"G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., is doing an exceedingly large business with a vast number of customers, and has assets in the form of cash, bank accounts, accounts receivable and office furniture and fixtures of very great value.

"It is essential for the interests of all that a receiver be appointed forthwith to take charge of the assets and protect them.

The three petitioners alleged that the concern cannot pay its debts. Lamont, it would appear, admits the truth of the allegation.

Judge Morton issued a restraining order prohibiting the company from doing further business, and sent the marshal to take possession of the books and records.

Two injunctions followed that which closed the Redmond office and its branches. By the first, the Security Safe Deposit Company is restrained from permitting anyone connected with Redmond from having access to the contents of his company's deposit boxes, while the second restrains James S. Lamont, president, and other officers, agents and employes, from touching, taking, concealing or dealing with any the property or securities.

Things began happening then all over the New England lot. Here in Boston, to beg a with, the brokerage firm of Withington & Co., No. 27 State street, quietly closed its doors and on one of them posted the notice unsigned:

"Owing to the suspension of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., for the protection of customers of Withington & Co., it is necessary that all business be suspended."

CURB INVOLVED

Withington & Co. is but one of three of four houses, all the others doing more or less business on, with or through the Curb, which are said to have been closely identified with G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc. Investigation, it was declared, will disclose that the Redmond organization was the "parent" of several curb houses. That there is no reason to believe in the neighborhood of the curb will not be denied.

In Rhode Island the offices of Redmond & Co. Inc., were closed by the following order:

"To G. F. Redmond & Co. Inc. 201 Woolworth Building, Providence, R. I.

"You are hereby ordered and directed to stop the sale of any and all securities, as the bank commissioner of the State of Rhode Island deems the sale of any and all securities by G. F. Redmond & Co. Inc. to be fraudulent and against the public interest.

(Signed) "George H. Newhall, "Bank Commissioner."

The resistering order of Judge Morton in the United States District Court was also effective in Rhode Island.

The Providence office at one time handled more than 2,500 accounts, the business amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars. There are still about 1,500 customers on the books.

Worcester reported about 900 active accounts, most of the customers buying stocks on the partial payment or instalment plan. The value of the securities carried in these Worcester accounts is estimated at $750,000, of which between $120,000 and $150,000 has been paid in.

The knock was felt as far away as Chicago, where a bankruptcy petition similar to that which produced action in Boston was filed by creditors with total claims of $3,500. Philadelphia on the other hand refused the use of the crash with no other emotion than satisfaction. Under the Blue Sky Law G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., some time ago were refused a license to do business in Pennsylvania and vacated their Philadelphia office.

BLAMES JEALOUSY

G. F. Redmond, the former Brom field street waiter who heads the alleged bankrupt concern, is in close touch with Lamont, his manager, and Edward A. Ginsberg of No. 85 Devonshire street, his attorney. Redmond's latest statement, in substance, is that the Federal in-

AFRAID SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Operation Advised, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made It Unnecessary

Glasgow, Kentucky.—"I was run-down, nervous, with no appetite. My side had given me trouble for five or six years. At times it was all I could do to live and doctor said I couldn't live but a short time longer without an operation. That was two years ago. My sister-in-law recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She had never used it herself, but she said one of her neighbors suffered just like I did, and it cured her. After I had taken four bottles the pain left my side. I had a fine appetite so eat anything that was put before me, and I began to do all my work and my washing, something I hadn't done for years. I am a dressmaker, and this last fall I began suffering with my side again, so I began taking the Vegetable Compound again. I am on my fourth bottle, which makes eight in all I have taken. I feel so much better when I take it and everybody tells me I look better. My appetite improves and I feel stronger in every way. I am a very nervous woman and it seems to help my nerves so much."—Mrs. MAGGIE WALLER, Glasgow, Kentucky.

Redmond Declares He Will Remain on the Job

George F. Redmond, head of the alleged bankrupt securities house of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., today told the Boston American that he will make no statements about the affairs of the company except written statements.

He has no written statement under consideration, he said.

"I intend to remain right here on the ground until our affairs have been adjusted, though, of course, business may call me away for a day or two from time to time," he said.

"It is true that I am forty-one years old and a native of California, but many other things that have been printed about me are untrue."

Mothers!! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. Too crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Stop it that instant with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will have prevented real sickness. Mrs. Ida Williamson of 1637 Pine St., Lead Beach, Cal., and Mrs. Lou Brawley of Self, Ark., never have illness in the family because of their prompt use of Syrup Pepsin.

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just what medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the stronger the medicine the more it shocks the system, so wise parents never give anything but a laxative to children. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health

Purchase a bottle of Syrup Pepsin at a drug store and always keep one in the family medicine chest. Give it to anyone from infant to grandparent, for it is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. You can keep a family healthy with just this simple medicine. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, biliousness, headaches, colds and other evidence of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients and which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing "USE MULSIFIED"

Soap should be used very carefully if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply your entire family for months.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

In the South Atlantic States there is developing at last real industry.

It is no longer considered "the thing" to go to Europe.

We have our own Winter resorts galore, and are also making Leadway [illegible] grounds.

Another very notable development is the vacationing now done on wheels. [illegible] motorists and campers. [illegible] significant, as [illegible] extensive development of all.

A veritable revolution has been underway in the [illegible] was when only the wealthy and the well-to-do [illegible] distant parts. Today [illegible] probably [illegible] tourists abroad in the land than any other class. The [illegible] particularly fond of traveling by automobile and [illegible] and [illegible] tourist [illegible] provided by main-line railroads [illegible] and fare-and [illegible] in every conveyance.

* * *

Just as striking [illegible] was once the privilege [illegible] now [illegible] motor cars. The [illegible] automobiling, [illegible] travel and vacationing are enjoyed by every industrious class.

All this reflects the growing prosperity of the American people.

It has another aspect: The popularity of home resorts means that the millions [illegible] dollars which formerly went abroad are now kept at home.

* * *

How much does this involve?

Not much less than a billion dollars a year, I should guess.

I've just had a trip [illegible] no idea there was such wonderful scenery in any part of the South as I have just seen [illegible] Rock some twenty [illegible] Asheville in [illegible] Carolina. Several million [illegible] dollars are to be spent in creating a vast lake among giant hills and mountains, in erecting the finest [illegible] laying out golf links, [illegible] courts, etc.

* * *

When completed, this [illegible] doubtless will be the most [illegible] spot in the Eastern half of the continent. It [illegible] [illegible] "The Bonnie, Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond," the beauty spot of Scotland and the most attractive parts of Switzerland, though, of course, less spectacular than the latter.

* * *

Dr. Julius Myers, in company with his two Chicago brothers, is the moving spirit behind the [illegible] project. He [illegible] to the Asheville region several years [illegible] in search of health and [illegible] attracted here by the [illegible] his long tramps he came upon this scenery. It caught his imagination. He began [illegible] dreams. He pictured a fairy-like resort, combining mountain and lake and valley.

The [illegible] knew, would be very great. But he [illegible] the task [illegible] dream into a reality.

Last year some 42,000 persons paid a dollar each to use the roadway he built up to Chimney Rock, although thus far neither the [illegible] the planned hotel has taken shape.

* * *

The highest peak of all several hundred feet above the chimney-like rock, received [illegible] name. The decision was [illegible] how he had [illegible] a money prize for a suitable name but how many of the hundreds [illegible] submitted seemed ideal. I [illegible] that when our party reached [illegible] point there were several [illegible] concerning the amazing beauty and grandeur of the view.

* * *

"Why not call it 'Exclamation Point'?" I suggested.

* * *

I think I mentioned previously that every leading hotel I struck was filled to overflowing. Well, I find that at Rock Rock [illegible] principal hotels have turned away as many people as they have been able to accommodate. Porches, billiard rooms, every possible inch of floor space are being utilized, including [illegible] of the Carolina, tells me that this week more people slept under its roof than on any previous occasion in its long history.

* * *

Frequently, one meets [illegible] faced gentlemen who [illegible] growing tendency of the American people to seek recreation and travel. They smoke their [illegible] and declare that it was not thus when they were young. But I notice that the headshakers are on holiday [illegible] and enjoying the best the country affords.

Is such an attitude not beneficial to mention that [illegible] other people can now enjoy what they themselves used to regard as the privilege of the few?

On this whole subject of spending money and enjoying the good things of life, may we say that whereas it is a mistake to go in heavily for such things in the first half of one's life, during the period which should be industriously devoted to making progress in the world it is wise to let up in the second half of life and to enjoy a rational amount of pleasures still [illegible] waiting until one foot is in the grave.

What is how I feel, too, about owning an automobile.)

Deny yourself recreation too long, and you will find yourself unfit to enjoy it.

* * *

New York Stock Market Firms After a Mixed Start, Specialties Leading

CASE DIVIDEND PASSED, ISSUE BREAKS 10

New York stock market prices firmed after a mixed start with speculative leading. Call money ruled at 4½ per cent.

J. I. Case Threshing Machine preferred following announcement of passage of the dividend, sold at 50 off 10.

American Can rose better than a point, as did also American Sugar Refining, Steel, Tobacco, Chemical, American Hide & Leather preferred, and Southern Pacific.

Public sales over 4 and Tobacco Products and Corn Products rose over 4.

An increase in quarterly dividend on Corn Products Refining common [illegible] be [illegible] at the [illegible] of the board March 28. If plans at [illegible] directors of the directorate [illegible] it anticipated that 2½ per cent. will be declared for the quarter, making [illegible] [illegible] instead of 4 per cent regular and 3 per cent. paid in 1923 and 1922.

Headiness of the Pan-American issues and the bear attacks against Penn brokered Steel and Coca Cola, the last named dropping 2¼, were used by professional traders as a reason to cover the accumulation of stock by the sections of the list.

Some of the high-priced specialties made good gains. Woolworth improved 5¼ to 304 a new high, and General Electric climbing 3.

Gains of a point or more were quite common in later trading.

Drivers in Scramble to Get St. Paul Issue

A buyers' scramble for St. Paul Railroad 4s of 1925, on expectations that they would be redeemed at par upon maturity, brought another four-point rally in this issue to 81 1-4, a new high level for the year. A New York bond dealings [illegible] exceptionally large turnover [illegible] noted in this bonds as well as in other St. Paul issues which advanced [illegible] to 3 1-2 points.

Chief interest in the early trading [illegible] red in the railroad list. Denver & Rio Grande's [illegible] on announcement of the modified plan for [illegible] organization.

Telephone and Swift Attain Fresh Highs

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange American Telephone sold at a new high rate since 1916. Swift [illegible] and Dexter attained new [illegible] highs.

Scattered strength was revealed by home issues, notably Warren Brothers securities, with the common and first preferred marking up joint advances, at 37 and 38, preferred stock and new convertible 7 per cent. bonds, which started with a point recession to 117, rallying [illegible] to 122. In addition, brisk quotations for the common stock and the bonds represented new highs for the year.

Many members of the Boston Stock Exchange and guests attended "get together" dinner at the Algonquin Club last night. The principal speakers were Charles F. Adams [illegible] of the John T. Connor Co., Cooper Charles J. Bullock of Harvard and John R. Macomber of Harris, Forbes & Co. William N. Goodwin, vice-president of the Exchange, was toastmaster, introduced George A. Fitch, secretary of the Exchange who presided.

The speakers dwelt on the importance of boosting Boston, the home city. Mr. Adams described the advantages which [illegible] of the Boston Stock Exchange had given the Connor Company. Professor Bullock made a scholarly plea for preservation of the [illegible] in the business and financial future of Boston and Mr. Macomber related numerous instances of exceptional sacrifice in peace and war on the part of members of the banking and brokerage profession.

Life Insurance Rush Makes Month Wait Necessary

The agent of a big New Jersey company, which maintains offices throughout New England, tells the financial editor of the Boston American that long waits are now frequently necessary before life insurance can be obtained.

It used to be possible to transact all the preliminaries in a short time, but now it is stated waits of as long as a month are sometimes necessary.

3 MINUTE JOURNEYS

By Temple Manning

The Ancient Capital of Incas in the Andes.

CUZCO, the ancient capital of the Incas, in Peru, is located about two and a quarter miles straight up in the air. Among the great accomplishments of the Spanish conquistadors was climbing up the sides of the Andes to this aerial capital.

As you wander through Peru you ask if Prescott wasn't a bit prejudiced against Spain in his pictures of the cruelty and brutality of the followers of Pizarro. If the civilized Indians of Peru were destroyed by Pizarro, how does it happen that they are still there? The population of Peru today is pure Indian, with a small upper stratum of Spanish and half breed. Furthermore, you will discover that the Indians haven't changed their habits and customs very much in four hundred years, and what civilization they ever had they still possess.

Pizarro overcame the small ruling class of the Incas and substituted a Castilian oligarchy. And of course he replaced the Inca sun worship with the Roman Catholic religion.

Cuzco is an Indian city. Of its 35,000 inhabitants four-fifths are pure blooded descendants of the race that Pizarro conquered. Its chief claim to importance nowadays is the fact that it contains the finest and most complete example of Inca construction and architecture.

The city is located about 200 miles southeast of Lima. Until some fifteen years ago, when a railroad was completed from Mollendo, on the coast, a couple of hundred miles south of Lima, the only way to get there was by mule.

Because of its great elevation travelers by railroad suffer much from mountain sickness.

The old rulers of Peru built with huge stones and erected massive structures. Overlooking the city is a hill on which was located a cyclopean fortress with walls of enormous thickness and from its position impregnable to any artillery possessed by the Spanish. There is no doubt that the Incas behaved with a degree of stupidity incompatible with their supposed culture and civilization or they never would have fallen into the hands of Spain.

On the other hand, their mastery of certain arts is made evident by their relics. As usual, the Spanish built a cathedral as soon as they were settled and this is a very imposing structure, dating from the early sixteenth century. A Dominican convent occupies the site of the Temple of the Sun. The natives are devout Catholics, but a traveler who happened to be in Cuzco during a church festival found that they celebrated with ceremonies and customs unknown in Spain, which undoubtedly have come down from their past as sun worshippers.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

SEVERAL married men have complained lately about wives who go through their husbands' pockets in front of company.

THE average dame feels that the money in her husband's trousers belongs to her whether they're hanging on him or over a chair.

IT'S not nice to rifle a man's pockets in front of guests, and every woman should wait until her husband retires before she starts gathering up stray nickels and dimes.

NICKELS and dimes are about all she'll find, because if her husband had any fifty-cent pieces he wouldn't come home.

THE law says very plainly that no wife shall rob her husband while he's awake.

BUT the men are getting around this by staying up all night.

IF a woman goes around broke all the time, the chances are her husband has insomnia.

ONE man complains that his wife comes down to his store and goes through the cash register in front of customers.

OF course this isn't so embarrassing except that there isn't any money left in the drawer when you go to get some.

THIS is worse when you have a partner in your business. His wife is always getting your money.

AND your wife never gets there in time to get any of his.

THE average woman doesn't know anything about business. Instead of pressing the "No Sale" key, she slams down on the ten dollar one.

BUT it doesn't make any difference to her what key she punches as long as the cash drawer opens.

SO if your wife insists upon going through your pockets for money in front of company, let her do it. You can take it away from her when the guests leave.

ABOUT YOUR BEAUTY

By Maria Jeritza

Famous Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

HAVE you ever noticed the eyes of the persons about you when you have found yourself idle for a few moments?

In all probability you saw eyes that were dark and brilliant, others that were radiantly blue and still others of the curious green-blue that vary in coloring according to their surroundings.

But quite regardless of color and even size, the eyes that are "easiest to look at," I believe you will agree, are those whose clearness, calmness and brightness signify a mind happy and at ease and a healthy body.

Eyes through which interested friendly good will looks, cannot but be interesting, though their owner may be far too deeply absorbed in thoughts not of herself to know how her eyes are attractive.

Beautiful eyes are within the reach of all of us, because lovely eyes are eyes that are clear, rested and expressive of mental and physical health.

No matter how small your eyes may be and although their color may be far from your preference, yet, you can, if you wish, gain for them this charm of healthy clearness and radiant friendliness.

Of course, the mental recipe for attractive eyes is simple and within the reach of you and me and everyone. Watch your own thoughts. Refuse entrance to every mental suggestion that is destructive. Rule out fear thoughts, hate thoughts, discouragement thoughts—every kind of useless unhappy mental suggestions.

Keep your mind occupied with a desire to help others, of eager interest in all that is beautiful, good and worth while. As long as this fine constructive thinking is yours your eyes will express radiant, bright friendliness and alertness.

Attention to the sensible rules of health will improve the appearance of your eyes as well as of your entire body. Have you never noticed how clear and bright and attractive your eyes look on your return from a pleasant vacation? That is because your general health is at its best and you are happy.

Never use your eyes in a trying light. Either manage to get a good light to work or read by or else postpone your work until the light is better.

Abundant sleep is just as necessary to the beauty of your eyes as to your general well-being. Eight or nine hours each night are essential.

Are tiny lines forming around the corners of your eyes? This means that your skin needs more food, for wrinkles are a sure symptom of starved skin tissues. So at night, pack in these wrinkles a pure oil such as olive oil, with a drop or two of benzoin added, or else lanolin, or else a good nourishing cold cream.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

If the parents are not living, is it better to have the wedding announcements made by a married sister who lives in another city, or for the couple to use their own names?

Is it proper to send out announcements of a quiet wedding which has taken place in a few months after the death of a parent? W. A.

IT is better form for a married sister to issue the invitations or announcements in the name of her husband and herself. The wording for an announcement should be:

"Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Jones have the honor to announce the marriage of Mrs. Jones's sister, Winifred Arlington, to Mr. Walter Lincoln Ford" etc.

It is good form, too, however, to issue the cards in the names of the couple if they wish.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

WEAF INJUNCTION THREATENS TO CLOSE OVER 500 STATIONS

RECEIVING SETS ALSO AFFECTED

Suit, if Successful, Will Create a Monopoly in Radio Business, It Is Claimed

New York, March 6.—Injunction proceedings to restrain Radio Station WHN from further broadcasting have been begun in the Federal Court by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

It was charged that if successful they will be used to close down all but forty of the 563 radiophone broadcasting stations in the United States.

It was further charged by George Schubel, in behalf of the defendant station, and by Charles Pope Caldwell, general counsel for the Radio Broadcasting Society of America, that the action of the A. T. & T. is but the opening gun in an effort to obtain a complete "monopoly" of the air, not only as to broadcasting but as to every receiving set in the country.

EFFECT OF MONOPOLY.

Said Mr. Schubel:

"Should this monopoly be established it will mean that every bit of radio entertainment will be under the censorship and control of the A. T. & T., even the educational and religious programs. The company will decide which political party may make radio political addresses and which party may not.

"And eventually no person will be permitted to have a radio set in his home not rented from the A. T. & T., precisely as virtually all the telephone subscribers of the country now must get their telephone service from the A. T. & T. and its subsidiary companies.

"This is going to be a fight for the American home, and it will be carried to the limit."

Mr. Caldwell said the Radio Broadcasting Society would combat the action of the A. T. & T. with every weapon at its command.

ONLY 40 LICENSED.

The action of the A. T. & T. it was declared by George E. Folk, patent attorney for the company, is based on the fact that the latter now controls, through purchase or otherwise, the patents on practically all the circuits used both in broadcasting and receiving sets. He said:

"Only about forty of the 563 broadcasting stations in the United States have been licensed to broadcast by the A. T. & T., and therefore all the remainder are infringing on patents which we control. As we did not wish to prosecute the 500 stations at one time, we are bringing the first suit against Station WHN.

"All these stations have had the opportunity to obtain licenses from us, but did not avail themselves of it."

Replying to this, Mr. Schubel charged that the A. T. & T. was the only company in the country which collected royalties from broadcasting, and that whenever the affiliated Western Electric Company sells a broadcasting set it compels the purchaser to sign an agreement that he will not use the station for the purpose of earning revenue. Mr. Schubel added:

"This means that there is only one concern in this country which has the divine right, by reason of the power of money, to be in the broadcasting field."

BACKED BY DE FOREST.

Two complaints, both seeking permanent injunctions, were filed against Station WHN, one signed by N. T. Guernsey, vice-president of the A. T. & T., and the other jointly by Mr. Guernsey and the DeForest Radio Telegraph & Telephone Company, which is backing the A. T. & T. in its suit. On behalf of the DeForest company, Carl Gilbert, its vice-president, said:

"We have no animus in the matter. The DeForest Company, as owners of various of the patents, were requested by their licensee, the A. T. & T., to assist in protecting their legal rights under the 1917 agreement and also to secure an adjudication of the patents."

The owners of Station WHN have about weeks in which to file an answer to the injunction proceedings.

One Program Soon

A national broadcast system, made up of a series of "super power" stations joined by radio and covering the United States, sending the same program into every home, is the ultimate solution of the broadcast question, in opinion of David Sarnoff, vice-president of Radio Corporation of America.

SINGLE CONTROL SET WITH 2 STAGE AMP

ONE-KNOB SET SIMPLE IN TUNING

For simplicity in tuning and construction, as well as for final results, there is little in the line of regenerative circuits to beat a "one knob" set recently developed.

This set uses an untuned primary, which is closely coupled to a tuned secondary. This is accomplished by winding both coils on the same form.

For this purpose drill two holes large enough to admit the wire, a quarter of an inch from the end of the three-inch tube. Wind twenty turns of No. 22 single cotton-covered, for the primary, leaving eight inches for the lead, fastening the coil at this end in the same way.

Now, one-quarter inch away start the secondary and wind fifty turns of the same wire, winding this coil in the same direction. Wind evenly and watch out for kinks. The coil may be fastened to the panel with a brass machine screw and nut. A hole is drilled in the space between the coils and another in the panel to match.

Look over all the parts, examine the variable condenser rotor so that plates don't touch stator, and that vernier makes good contact, bend up spring contacts slightly in sockets, and see that rheostat and potentiometer sliders are making contact.

After studying the picture layout, draw pencil lines on the 7 by 21 inch panel where the controls, jacks, binding posts and bezels will be mounted. Compare these positions with those in the picture, and when found correct, line them with a fine metal point. Centre-punch these deeply, except the base holes, which are done differently.

Before mounting the apparatus, prepare the shield. This is a small piece of tin or copper foil, five inches square, and glued to the inside of the panel in front of the condenser. When this is dry, cut away the foil around the shaft and screw holes, and wherever it connects with other instruments. This is extremely important. A thin strip of the foil is glued to the panel, but connecting with the shield, and run over to the ground binding post, and smooth the edges with a round file.

Use the square bus bar, and do not bend it too sharply, for these sharp bends are neither mechanically nor electrically desirable. Use round-head machine screws to fasten the instruments to the panel, but be sure to use it whenever the leads come close.

The filament and plate battery leads may be brought out through the back of the cabinet through small holes. This does away with unsightly leads on the panel, and in no way detracts from the efficiency.

If the set does not regenerate, reverse the leads of coil No. 7. The condenser, fixed, may be .001 or .0005 microfarad, but must have a mica dielectric. The set is now ready for the tubes.

Parts to Use

The following parts are needed for the one-knob set, with a two-stage amplifier:

Eight binding posts.

One cardboard of bakelite tube, diameter 3 inches and 5 inches long.

One .00025 mfd., mica dielectric condenser.

One 2 megohm grid leak.

One .001 mfd., mica dielectric condenser.

Three tube sockets, to fit tubes.

Three vacuum tubes, detector and two amplifiers.

Three rheostats for tubes used.

Two double circuit jacks.

One single circuit jack.

One telephone plug.

Two audio frequency transformers, low ratio.

One 300 ohm potentiometer.

One "C" battery, 4½ volts.

One 45 volt "B" battery.

One 22½ volt "B" battery.

One "A" battery, suitable for tubes.

One hard rubber or bakelite panel, 7x21 inches.

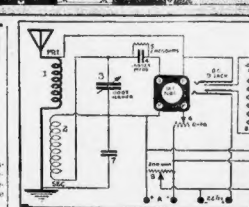
One pair of good headphones.

One loud speaker horn.

Square bus bar and "spaghetti" varnished cambric tubing.

Aerial, 100 feet No. 14 bare copper wire. Lead-in, No. 14 rubber covered wire, ground wire of same size.

One mahogany cabinet, fitted to panel.



THE NEW "ONE-KNOB SET"

A single variable condenser, marked "3" in the hook-up above, is the major control of this set, which has gained many warm friends The hook-up is simple and, in spite of the simple control, is surprisingly selective. It is not, speaking strictly, a single control set, as besides the condenser there is a potentiometer and rheostat, but the latter are not difficult to handle. The layout of the parts is shown at the top.

HUERTA FORCE KILLS 400 IN LONG BATTLE

Mexican Rebels Claim Complete Victory Along Tehuantepec Railroad Front

Frontera, Tabasco, March 4 (By Radio via the Dallas News) (A.P.)—Complete defeat of Federal forces on a thirty-kilometer front between Carmen station and Jalapam after continuous fighting lasted from February 25 to March 2, is claimed by the headquarters here of De La Huerta. Six thousand men were engaged on each side, the statement said.

A wide strip of country along the Tehuantepec railroad, connecting Carmen station, Chinameca, Cosoleacaque and Jaltipam, is reported to have fallen into rebel hands, the Federals leaving four hundred dead, many wounded and large quantities of arms and ammunitions on the battlefield.

As a result, headquarters declares 6th & eighteen sympathetic with the revolution have been embraced in the area under control of the Huertistas, who are now said to control all of the states of Campeche, Tabasco, Chiapas, Oaxaca and Quintana Roo, the territory of Quintana Roo and part of Morelos, Mexico, Hidalgo, Michoacan, Jalisco, Colima, Guanajuato, Puebla, Aguas Calientes, Nuevo Leon and Nayarit.

Twenty thousand armed men in the state of Tabasco are reported to have volunteered for service with the revolutionaries.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK FELT IN QUEBEC

BOSTON DOCTOR SCORES MANY HOSPITALS

Those of Some Colleges Most Ineffective, Codman Declares to Surgeons

Chicago, March 6.—There are 7000 hospitals in the country and 850,000 patients in them; every year 10 per cent. of the population go into hospitals; this is an age of hospitals, and most of them are inefficient. Such was the summary of Dr. E. A. Codman, of Boston, in his talk to the convention of surgeons. He said:

"Take a number of bona narcomia. On this point I have some 400 of the leading surgeons and pathologists of the country canvassed of diagnoses in their own handwriting. Of 400 cases reported, practically every one represented a mistake in diagnosis. Legs were amputated when they should not have been, and patients died without the operating surgeon knowing for sure whether they should have died or lived.

"Among the most ineffective hospitals are those connected with our teaching institutions, and among the least inefficient ones are some of the smaller hospitals.

Dr. Frank Billings, Chicago surgeon, who presided, and others present, were visibly surprised at Codman. By the time Dr. Codman had finished the silence was eloquent.

CARRIER PIGEON WITH CODE DROPS

A carrier pigeon with a mysterious code message in an aluminum case attached to its neck, was found exhausted by Mrs. Ralph Williams at her home, No. 62 Jamaica street, Jamaica Plain.

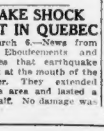
The bird crashed against the window and fell to the ground. Mrs. Williams gave the pigeon food and drink.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. F. X. MAHONEY,
Boston Health Commissioner.

MANY of the young men and women of Boston, anxious to make large wages, have forgotten that you can't successfully burn both ends of the candle.

They take a position that employs them eight or nine hours a day and then seek other employment for the evening hours and go home, late at night, with large wages but physically near a state of collapse.



Dr. Mahoney

These persons are selling their most valuable possession, health, for gold. Physical fatigue, from the standpoint of preventive medicine, must be given consideration as one of the important factors tending to lower blood and tissue resistance to infectious disease, and especially to osseous infections.

With overcrowding, bad ventilation and catarrhal infections accompanied by coughing and sneezing, individuals vary in susceptibility to such infections. Susceptibility seems to vary from time to time in the same individual.

Age, exposure, fatigue, mental depression, digestive disturbances, lack of food and unsuitable clothing are important factors in the infection and spread of disease.

Avoid overeating or drinking; do not keep late hours. Plenty of sleep is necessary for the health of both mind and body. Let alcohol and tobacco alone. Do not indulge in too much tea or coffee. Eat the right kind of food. Live and sleep in fresh air. Learn to relax. Avoid needless worry and undue excitement. Wear proper clothing. Bathe frequently. Avoid excess of sugar, salt and highly seasoned dishes.

Admit the sunshine to your homes. Avoid the high pressure life and have periods of simple and wholesome recreation. Drink plenty of pure water. Take regular, moderate, out-door exercise. Keep the teeth clean and in good condition, and stand, sit and walk erect.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

For an operation to correct a slight depression in the bone of my nose, the surgeon inserted paraffin, which has made the nose far worse. The skin is always red and the depression is deep. Is there a swollen look and is very sensitive. Will you suggest what I can have the paraffin removed by a nose specialist?
MRS. M. O.

Consult your family physician as to a nose specialist. He can do this as well as I.

I had dysentery four years ago and was taped twice, but still have a pain in the left side. I gained 48 pounds the first years, and still weigh 187; was sick when I only weighed 139. It was 7 months after. Do you think it will come back?
MRS. O. S. C.

Under proper care I see no reason to believe that you will not completely recover. Severe pain symptoms should warn you to see your physician at once.

When younger I was subject to cramp pains in my right side, front and back. Have not had them for seven years. Do you think it is my tonsils? When I go home from work I feel dead tired.
C. C.

I should only have to guess what is the trouble with you from the symptoms you describe. They might apply to many conditions. It is an early matter for your physician, with the help perhaps of an X-ray examination, to learn if there is anything wrong with your tonsils.

Should a woman going through change of life take the so-called gland treatment reported to prevent some of the disagreeable nature of that period?
M. S.

There is no reason why a normal, healthy woman should, in my opinion, take this treatment.

Please send me booklet on the care of babies and on feeding a baby 8 to 12 months old.
MRS. J. O.

I am sending you the booklet you mention.

Cloth for Patch Work

Editor Helping Hand.

I have quite a lot of small pieces of cloth that would do very nicely for patch work. They would only do for such work as they are small. I would be very glad to send them to anyone who could use them for making quilts.
MRS. LO.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. E. L., who has asked for material for patch work quilts.

Check Forwarded

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send the inclosed check to Mrs. L. McA. immediately, and let me know her address as soon as possible, as I have some clothes for her.
E. L. S.

Thank you. Your check has been forwarded to Mrs. L. McA. and her address sent to you. All who read her appeal will be glad to know that, thanks to you and many other generous readers, she is very much more comfortable now.

Who Will Write?

Editor Helping Hand:

My little girl would like to know if anyone would want to correspond with her. She is sick and can't go out and play with the others. She has been sick since the age of five, and now she is twelve. She would like some books, but I can't get her any because we are too poor. There are six children besides her, and they have only rags to wear. Her name is JULIETTE.

Two Fables Worth While:

Or, Don't Think of Success Unless You Are Ready to Give Up Something

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

Here are two FABLES:

There was a painter once who painted a picture. This painter made only one picture. It was all done in tones of red. Other painters came and marveled at the picture. They saw the painter work. They saw his pigment. They saw his brushes. But they were unable to solve his secret. They went away and some sent into distant lands and purchased pigments rich and rare. They painted and failed to produce the results of the painter in red. Others consulted the chemists and mixed for themselves colors of wondrous lustre, but when they put them on the canvas they faded.

And all the time the painter worked alone. All the time the painter grew whiter and whiter and the painting grew redder and redder. At last his fellows found him dead beside his picture. His brush was in his hand and his work was finished. The men who found him stood before the canvas in wonder. Each one said to his neighbor, "Where did he get his conception? Where did he get his color?"

And when they had undressed him to put the grave clothes on him they found upon his left breast an open wound. It was an old, old wound, that had been there many years. Its edges were crusted and hard. But those who buried the painter still marveled. They still said one to another, "Where did he get his conception? Where did he get his color?"

Once upon a time there was a man who went through life without ever accomplishing what he started. Each morning he had noble thoughts and went forth with fine purposes. But each night he came back with failure stamped upon his brow. His neighbors looked upon him and he seemed to be as other men. But he knew that he was not as other men. From his earliest youth he had been chained to a being who ever kept behind him and held him back in his every endeavor to attain to something better.

Each day he had tried to get a glimpse of this being, but had always failed. Many times he had asked his friends to tell him something concerning the being at his back, but each time his friends declared they saw nothing. This man started out in the morning with the declaration, "I will this day accomplish something for my advancement in life." At his back the chained being would answer, "Why be foolish? You cannot by any effort accomplish anything to advance yourself. I have willed it so and I stand always ready to prevent you." And it was even so.

And by and by the man became despondent and tired of trying to become something better among his fellows. He said, "I will now try to be of some use to somebody else. I will help somebody else to attain." And the being chained at his back said never a word. But when the time came for the act that would help somebody else the being at his back seized his hand and he was powerless.

In the end the man was possessed with an unconquerable desire to triumph, not for himself or for his fellows, but OVER the being chained at his back. He went away from the haunts of humanity and out into the wilds. And when he was afar in the mountains he began the struggle. The bonds were of iron and the being was of great strength. He fought for hours to get his tormentor where he might get a glimpse of him, but in vain. Finally, as strength was failing and the thought of ultimate failure was hastening the finish, the chains broke and the man and the being grappled in the last fight. The struggle was long and even, and DEATH stood over them both as they fought. At last strength was gone. Each dropped at the same instant, and in falling the MAN saw the face of the BEING. It was HIMSELF.

Well, these are rather morbid stories which somebody, the writer does not know who, invented long ago, but they contain some truth which cannot be missed, even by those who read in haste and do not stop to ponder.

You have all heard men and women, young and old, who complain that life is a failure for them. They look at their successful neighbors and marvel even as did the envious painters. Make no mistake, however, the story of success is always the same. You cannot hope to be great among men in any sense worth while without putting into work LIFE BLOOD.

There undoubtedly are some who might be worth more to themselves and to the world if it were not for THEMSELVES. The hardest task in life, and the one most essential to success, is the breaking with self at the very outset of any endeavor to advance. Thousands fail daily because they are chained to THEMSELVES, hand and foot, having failed to break the bonds early in life.

These things are obvious in the two fables printed here, but here is something which is not quite so evident on the surface:

Don't gauge SUCCESS by what you GET OUT of it so much as by what you PUT INTO IT.

Save the Lives of Mothers

The Senate Should Act Today

Because 500 mothers died in Massachusetts in 1922 from maternity causes—

Because 2,520 babies died during the first week after birth during the same year—

The Boston American hopes the Massachusetts Senate will substitute Senate bill No. 283 for the adverse report of the committee when it comes up for action today.

This bill, which accompanies the petition of Edna Lawrence Spencer, would prevent many of the deaths of mothers and infants that occur annually in this State.

Had such a law been in force in Massachusetts in 1922 the lives of at least 250 mothers and of many babies might have been saved.

This bill calls for the proper care of mothers during a reasonable period before, at, and after childbirth, mothers being allowed to choose the physicians and nurses they wish.

It also calls for the payment of sums up to $12 a week to a prospective mother who is gainfully employed. Many lives are lost because mothers who are forced to make a living for themselves and other children remain at work too long.

Such organizations as the State Federation of Labor, W. C. T. U. and Women's League for Community Service have endorsed this bill.

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

OF course you know about the shooting scrape in which Mabel Normand was unfortunately involved. And you've probably taken sides in the argument concerning the banning or release of her films. But I wonder if you have heard of the action taken by the Chicago club women in this matter?

Many small towns had barred the Normand films, and Mabel Normand had sent a plea from her sick bed that she be not condemned without trial. Then a resolution came before the members of the First District Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs recommending that the Normand films be banned in the district. A sharp debate ensued, and the resolution was rejected. It was decided to invite Miss Normand to address the Women's Association of Commerce and tell her story as soon as she has sufficiently recovered.

"MEN STICK TOGETHER—IT'S HIGH TIME WOMEN DID, ESPECIALLY UNTIL THEY KNOW THE REAL FACTS OF A CASE," declared Mrs. Marion Biel, chairman of the district committee on legislation.

"Stick together!"—that's the strong, new rallying cry to women. All woman-life will be revolutionized if that cry is answered. Men nearly always stick together. They stick together because life pushes them together and there is no alternative. You can't play a lone hand when you're out in the middle of the traffic. You have to act with and for the crowd. You grow an impersonal viewpoint, willy nilly. But women haven't been out in the traffic. They have lived in walled domains and their strength lay in individual assertion rather than in co-operation. The personal equation was near and dominant, community interests vague and weak. It worked, because the domains were walled.

But woman no longer lives in a walled domain. She is out in the traffic. Even the home is an open thoroughfare. She must think with and for the crowd or be trampled upon.

And she's having a hard time of it. She is facing tremendous new freedom, opportunities and responsibilities for which she was not prepared, and in which she has no adequate legal protection. The laws concerning women have not kept step with the changing social and industrial order. She is still considered a child or an idiot in many sections of the statute books. And she is equally hampered by a public opinion which was molded in the days when she was property instead of a person.

Out of this confusion women must save themselves. They must prove their solidarity before they receive the respect accorded solidarity. As they judge each other now, so they will be judged by the men into whose world they have swarmed. If they do not mete out tolerance and loyalty to each other it will not be meted out to them. This doesn't apply in a vague way to all women—IT APPLIES DEFINITELY TO YOU, PAL.

What's your attitude toward your sex? Do you smile upon and swap cake recipes with the few who belong to your particular Parent-Teachers' Association, and cast a suspicious, if not an actively hostile eye at all the rest? What's your attitude toward all the restive members of your sex who are making the new experiments? The little flappers, the hard business women, the discontented wives? Do you try to understand the new language, the new viewpoint and sympathize with their struggles and hurts? Or do you sneer and crab and wheeze for the "good old days?"

Once upon a time it wouldn't have mattered greatly whether you stood by other women or didn't, for each woman mapped out her own destiny. But now the feminine sex is going to sink or swim together. You're not merely a disagreeable individual when you fail to stand by them—you're a TRAITOR and SLACKER. So think well as you ask yourself this question: AM I HELPING MY SEX STICK TOGETHER?

Mother of Eight Is Dead

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a girl eighteen years old. My mother is dead, and there are eight of us children. My mother died last September, two days after giving birth to twins, a boy and a girl. They are six months old now. I have brought them up so far without a mother. I have my grandmother, but she is eighty years old and can't do anything. I have no clothes at all. I have two brothers, fifteen and thirteen, and my sisters' ages are eight and five. If any kind readers had anything to fit any of us we all would be very glad.

I wish I had a carriage for the babies, but if I got some clothes for them I would like it better.

Clothes for Old Lady

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a box of clothes that would fit an old lady about fifty-five or sixty, size 42. Also some shoes, rubbers and overshoes size 5. Would be glad to send them to some needy person.

Thank you. We have sent you the address of Mrs. M. T., a widow of sixty-five, who wears the sizes you offer.

In Dire Need

Editor Helping Hand:

We are so much in debt through sickness that it is impossible to buy a thing beyond the barest of needs. I have not a rag to wear but one old dress I had three years ago, as I would rather hide myself than have another bill to pay. I am wearing an old undershirt of my husband's, and wonder what I shall wear when that gives out. Now I do without any when I wash it. I have a coat and hat which I had when I married, and it is still good enough to wear. I think I take a size 30 years or size 38, but anything will do, for I have gone this Winter with nothing but a man's undershirt and an old skirt. I

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE MEANING OF ROOMS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A HUMAN being secretes its Room as a crustacean its shell.

Your Room, like any other forthputting, indicates your soul.

There is something that betrays you in the photographs on your dresser, in the motto on the wall, in the hang of the curtains, and in the way you turn the piano.

The amount of money spent upon adornment makes little difference; a Room may be interesting though poor, and abominable though rich, just as with folks.

Among Rooms we have all met, let there be noted (1) the Homebody's Room, where every article of furniture bespeaks love in purchase and comfort in use. The minute you see that old sofa you know it was not bought at a store, but was either handed down by Aunt Maria or picked out at an auction or a second-hand shop. It was not bought because it was needed, but because someone fell in love with it. There is a bird or a cat or a flower in the Homebody's Room, because the occupant loves home ties and routine duties.

Just the opposite is (2) the Hotellish Room. Everything in it is for anybody, hence attractive to nobody. No matter how deep the cushioning of the armchairs and how elaborate the carving of the table legs, how pretty the mantel clock, and how rare the framed prints, it all smites you as heartlessly as a painted woman. It is about as personal as a common carrier and as homey as a mausoleum.

The Room (3) with a geranium blooming in the window tells of a certain kind of woman. For there be women for whom no plant will grow.

The (4) Cluttered Room fits the tousled soul. Wall covered with infinite pictures, cards, ornaments; bureau strewn so thick with toilet implements and bric-a-brac that it looks like a department store counter; chairs, tables, lamp stands, crowded as in a curiosity shop. What a jungle personality to enjoy living in so close a tangle!

The (5) Bare Room, severe, ostentatiously nude, severe furnishings; someone with a program lives there.

The (6) Tidy Room, everything sweepable swept, everything polishable polished, everything scrubable scrubbed, everything dustable dusted. You know her, too, who feels dirt as sin, the feline soul, glove-fitted to conventions, to whom morality means conformity.

The (7) Booky Room, where bookcases are the pieces of resistance; and books everywhere, in rows on shelves, scattered on stands, piled, heaped, strewn. It is the nest of the reading gourmand, the voracious worm of letters, the literary larva. You seem to see the occupant, standing with a book in his hand, one under each arm, another held between his knees, a dozen swarmed about his feet.

May be listed also (8) the Room cheap and gaudy, (9) the Room expensive, where each piece shrieks its high price, (10) the Room that invites ease, caressing you to comfort, and (11) the Room showy, radiating stiffness and formality; also the (12) Man's Room, with things handy and smells pipy, and (13) the Woman's Room, with things delicate and frail perfumes.

Add to these Jaily Rooms, Hospitally Rooms, Officey Rooms, Boarding-Housey Rooms, Rooms Palatial, and Rooms Snug; so does the Human Creature build his lair.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON THE INSECT WORLD

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

I HAVE been reading about a company of Boy Scouts who recently went out under the lead of a naturalist to a well-wooded region near New York, where they camped, with roaring logfires at night, while they spent the daylight hours hunting for hibernating spiders and beetles, of which they found great numbers, both adults and larvae, hidden away for the cold season, in the heart of their own country, lying in warm, decaying logs, in holes bored in old stumps, stowed away among tangled rootlets on steep banks, in crevices of bark, and of rocks, and under fragrant covers of pine needles, carpeting the Winter woods with more than palatial luxuriousness. For a homely black beetle, it seems, may have a balmier resting place than a king.

Many of the insects, surprised by the invasion—which must have been to them like a convulsion of nature—as if the hills should suddenly become alive and roll over upon us—were dug out and smoked out of their deep, comfortable beds, and, half awake, were dropped into wide-mouthed bottles and corked up with alcohol for carrying to the entomological laboratory, there to be embalmed to the thirst that burns in man for knowledge about the bodies, the ways and the life of his small, six-legged and eight-legged contemporaries on this spinning globe.

It was, without a doubt, a fine, healthful, interesting and instructive experience for the boys; and if the insects were not pleased they could only make their protests known by ineffective kicking, for man is the resistless lord of life and death to all creatures living in his world that are not big and strong enough to do battle with him.

The only hope that the insects could have in a struggle against man must lie in their overwhelming numbers; and in that way they are strong indeed, so strong that it may be fortunate for us that they lack the brain-power which is our shield and our sword.

We should have more compunction about gratifying, in so rude a manner, our curiosity concerning these little creatures, if it were not that we believe—perhaps correctly—that they are incomparably less sensitive than we in all ways, and that they do infinitely less thinking, if they truly think at all.

They appear to take life as it comes, and do not even recognize that there is such a thing as life, or such a thing as death; do not, in short, form any opinion or thought on this subject, in any sense or manner.

There are no insect philosophers, declares our philosophy. They could not comprehend Descarter's idea, "I think, therefore I am." So they cannot speculate about immortal insect souls, or about the heavens or the earth. They have no worries, no emotions—

But stop. Some naturalists who have most intimately studied the conduct of insects have thought that they detected among them signs of even human qualities! One speaks of "the mother love" of spiders, leading the poor creatures to sacrifice their lives, and to undergo what can only seem the most awful torture, rather than desert their helpless offspring.

Is it emotion or is it tropism? Is it love, or is it chemistry? But as to that I rather think that some of our scalpel-minded scientists in their secret hearts believe that even human love is only a manifestation of chemical affinity—an expression of the same law that causes oxygen and hydrogen, in the presence of a flame, to unite explosively and form water!

And the "time-binding" property, supposed to be so exclusively distinctive of man—how does that differ, essentially, from the care of the future shown by so many insects in their elaborate preparations, and their tireless labors, for not only their yet unborn children, but for the future steps and stages in their own many-phased individual life? Are we justified in drawing a line between similar acts and saying: "These are the product of reason, and those only of instinct?" If the fruits are alike, how do the trees differ? However, I am not maintaining a thesis, but suggesting things to think about.
